Propaganda Campaign Revealed During Hearing

BIG NAMES LISTED

Retreat in Kentucky Arranged in Case of 'Revolution'

WASHINGTON, May 19—The Dies committee today ordered Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, retired U. S. army officer, and Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton subpoenaed to testify next week on their relations with a highly-organized anti-Semitic propaganda campaign in this country.

The action was taken in a brief, 15-minute session this morning, with the committee further deciding to adjourn until Monday before taking additional testimony.

WASHINGTON, May 19—The Dies committee moved swiftly today to determine the ramifications of an amazingly complex and bizarre anti-Semitic propaganda campaign with which the committee has already linked the names of a wealthy New York socialite and a retired army general, George Van Horn Moseley, as key figures.

Determined to complete the picture of intrigue and plotting that opening testimony disclosed, Chairman Martin Dies (D) of Texas announced that the committee would summon every person involved "until we are convinced that the public has been fully informed of what appears to be as dangerous and clever a scheme for arousing racial hatred as could be conceived."

Persons who may be called according to Dies, include General Moseley, George Deatherage, St. Albans, W. Va., chief of the Knights of the White Camellias, Felix McWhirter, prominent Indianapolis bank president and a former officer of the Indiana Republican state committee; Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton and others whose names have been introduced into the record—either as unknowing victims or accomplices.

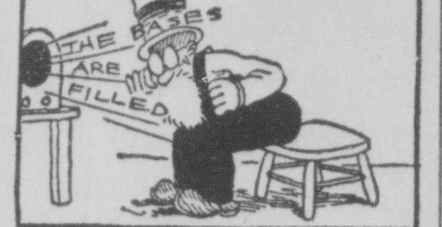

Hamilton's Name Used

Hamilton's name entered the testimony — taken behind closed doors yesterday and made public late last night—as a party to correspondence by which James Erwin Campbell, 42-year-old Owensboro, Ky., reserve corps captain, obtained the names and addresses of the Republican National committee members to augment a mailing list of 200 prominent and key persons over the nation to whom Campbell could mail the speeches of General Moseley.

Conciliator Seeks Truce At Harlan

An Eye-Dropper Banquet

Canada Outdoing Itself To Entertain King, Queen

ROYAL PILOT TRAIN, ENROUTE OTTAWA, May 19—Eastern Canada, in two days time, has demonstrated an amazing capacity for packing itself sardine fashion into any given space on receipt of the magic words—"you can see them from here."

Visited in the past by such colorful members of the royal family as the Duke of Windsor, (then Prince of Wales), Canada always has put on a good show but for the present rulers of the Empire it has gone happily mad.

People get up at four or five o'clock in the morning to have a good standing spot by two in the afternoon. They go without lunch and they go without supper, if by so doing they can hold a five square inch space from which it is just possible to catch a glimpse of the lean, smiling King and his sweet-faced Queen.

OHIO FARMER PRESENTS MIXED BREED PROBLEM

LONDON, O., May 19—Ben Gritton, Clark county farmer, today offered scientists this problem to solve:

If the chances of twins being born to a mare are 25,000 to 1, what are the possibilities of those twins being of mixed breeds?

It not only could happen, but Gritton said it did when a five-year-old mare foaled a colt and a mule at the same time.

MCCRADY CALLS 22 TO TESTIFY IN $13,361 TRIAL

A list of 22 witnesses for the plaintiff in the suit of William F. McCrady, W. Franklin street, as administrator of the estate of John McCrady, against the Benedict Transportation Lines, Inc., of Columbus, was filed Thursday in Common Pleas court.

The case is scheduled to go on trial Monday before Judge Phil Henderson, of Logan. Mr. McCrady asks $13,361.40 for the death of his son in an auto and truck collision on Route 23, north of Circleville, on March 13, 1936.

Witnesses called for the plaintiff are the Rev. and Mrs. S. C. Elsen, of New Plymouth; Kenneth Eulen, of Darbyville; Isaac Miller, who resides along Route 3; Malcolm Rathburn, of Ashville; and Loring Hoffman, Ralph Woods, C. C. Young, Clayton Young, Dean White, Helen Hartman, Bryan Custer, Edward Cupp, Fred C. Clark, James I. Smith, Jr., Talmer Wise, Warren Harmon, Joseph Morris, Robert Peters, Guy Pettit, Harold E. Situation Most Tense At Totz; Bayonets Pointed At Crowds

WASHINGTON, May 19 — The Department of Justice today ordered its chief criminal prosecutor — Assistant Attorney General Brien McMahon — to the Harlan county, Ky., coal fields to determine if civil liberties, guaranteed in federal law, are being flouted.

HARLAN, Ky., May 19—Federal and state labor department conciliators worked to effect a truce in the bitter Harlan county coal war today as 1,200 National Guardsmen, under orders to open fire with machine guns and rifles should yesterday's sniping at reopened mines be repeated, strove to keep the peace.

The federal conciliator, John L. Connor, who arrived on the scene last night from Washington, said he could not promise a settlement of the controversy between Harlan coal operators and the United Mine Workers, but would do the best he could.

To date, the operators and the union have been deadlocked on the issue of "union shop" contracts which all other Kentucky owners have signed.

"I can't say anything except that I plan to lay the groundwork for the beginning of conciliation," (Continued on Page Four)

MICHIGAN HOPS ON BAND WAGON FOR VANDENBERG

LANSING, Mich., May 19—Michigan Republican leaders, including Governor Luren D. Dickenson and the entire slate of elected Republican officials, today formally endorsed United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as Michigan's Republican candidate for the presidency in 1940.

The unexpected statement lauded Vandenberg as "a National Republican liberal" and pledged him support of the Michigan delegation to the 1940 G. O. P. convention.

The statement concluded: "We express our belief that Michigan will ask his nomination. We take this means of commending him to the good opinion of our fellow Republicans throughout the nation."

The statement was signed by the governor, Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly, Attorney-General Thomas Read, State Treasurer Miller Duncle, Auditor-General Vernon J. Brown, Superintendent of Public Instruction Eugene B. Elliott, Senate President Felix H. Flynn and House Speaker Howard Nugent.

Governor Dickinson added a statement of his own, saying:

"It is my hope that this first formal expression of opinion on the part of elected representatives of the Republican party of Michigan will win the hearty endorsement of Michigan citizens in general, without regard to party lines."

TOO MUCH BLOWING OF HORN LEADS TO ARREST

Fred Allen, 38, of 560 Chestershire road, Columbus, is under a bond of $115 to report next Tuesday at 7 p. m. on a charge of operating an auto when intoxicated Thursday night on S. Court street.

Allen was arrested at 10:30 o'clock by police who said their attention was attracted to the car by excessive horn blowing.

MADRID CHEERS FRANCO'S ENTRY

135,000 Troops Of Three Nations Parade Before Conquering General

MADRID, May 19—Staging his triumphal entry into conquered Madrid, Generalissimo Francisco Franco today reviewed a parade of 135,000 Spanish, Italian and German soldiers who helped him win the bloody, 31-month Spanish civil war.

The parade proceeded smoothly and Franco, watching from a specially constructed stand, was overcome with emotion and close to tears. Nearby stood his wife and daughter.

Italian troops near the head of the marchers marched smartly past the reviewing stand, shouting the name of Il Duce.

A light rain failed to dampen the fervor of the marchers or the holiday spirit that prevailed throughout Madrid.

Early in the ceremonies, Gen. Jose Varela, one of Franco's chief war aides, decorated the Generalissimo with the Grand Cross of Laureada San Fernando, the rarest honor in Spain.

Count Jordana, vice president of Franco's cabinet and foreign minister, paid a glowing tribute to the generalissimo: "You have saved Spain, peace and civilization."

Thousands of Madrilenos as well as visitors from all parts of the country turned out for the festivities that marked Franco's victory in the war which ended two months ago with capture of Madrid.

Hundreds of planes soared overhead as Franco watched the parade from a tribune on the famed Castellano, which has been renamed in his honor.

DETROIT JUDGE FREES 'BLACK LEGION' LEADER

LIMA, May 19—Success today capped the three-year fight for freedom of Virgil H. "Bert" Effinger, reputed former leader of the notorious Black Legion.

In Detroit, Judge Ned Smith dismissed the last of a series of charges pending in Michigan against Effinger, an electrician by trade and twice an unsuccessful candidate for sheriff of Allen county.

The Detroit judge, at the request of the prosecuting attorney, dismissed a charge of criminal syndicalism. An important witness was said to be missing, making it impossible for the state to proceed with prosecution.

Previously Effinger had been freed of a charge of possessing a bomb, the dismissal being based on similar grounds.

Following his indictment in Michigan during the sensational Black Legion investigation Effinger fought extradition from Ohio. During an extradition hearing in Columbus in August 1936, he disappeared but in December 1937 surrendered and continued his fight to avoid removal to Detroit, but in this he was unsuccessful.

While the charges, now quashed, were pending Effinger was free on bond.

Highway Patrolmen, Police Officers On Lookout For Fred C. Moore

CLOSET REVEALS BODY

Two Bullet Wounds Found; Suspect Not Seen Since Early Wednesday

LANCASTER, May 19 — Ohio highway patrolmen and local police officers throughout the state were on the lookout today for Fred C. Moore, 52, of nearby Pickerington, sought for questioning in connection with the fatal shooting of his wife, Bertha, 48.

Mrs. Moore's body, with two bullet wounds in the head, was found in a bedroom closet of her home yesterday. Coroner J. D. Dupler said the woman had been dead since Tuesday.

The husband, a power plant foreman, was last seen Wednesday, authorities said, when he had lunch with a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Shields, in Lancaster. Moore reportedly complained that he was not feeling well and had his daughter call his employers to tell them he would not be a work.

Daughter Worried

The daughter was said to have called the sheriff's office Wednesday afternoon when she became worried about her mother's whereabouts.

Moore was known as an ambitious man and a hard worker. Besides his job at the power plant he maintained a three-lot truck patch, adjacent to his home.

The Moores have resided in Pickerington all their lives, having lived in the present home for more than 20 years.

MURDER PROBE IS QUIET AFTER MUCH GRILLING

All remained quiet Friday on the investigation front in the murder last Sunday of Noble Crawford, 39, of Haynes.

Officers were still awaiting a report from a Columbus chemist to learn whether stains found on the clothing of Lonnie Toles, 37, Negro, held for investigation in the case, are blood stains. They did not know when the report would be received.

During the week members of the police and sheriff's departments have questioned a number of persons checking on rumors circulated about the murder. No new developments have been revealed but officers report they have made some progress in the case.

Crawford's body, containing 18 stab wounds, was found last Sunday in a small pond just west of Circleville in the river lowlands.

Poison Ring Suspect Talks?

PHILADELPHIA, May 19 — Seized by G-men in a Greenwich Village apartment in New York, Mrs. Rose Carina, so-called "kiss of death woman" long-sought in connection with Philadelphia's insurance-murder ring faced a hearing on homicide charges today.

Brought back to this city from which she fled at outset of the poison probe, Mrs. Carina was rushed to an unidentified police station for questioning. Arrested with the alleged "Lorelei" of the poison plot was Antonio Mastro, a barber who was accused of aiding her flight from Lakewood, N. J.

Reports that Mrs. Carina has "talked" circulated freely around city hall after detectives sent an emergency call for a stenographer. Rumor had it that au-

CROPS MENACED BY LACK OF RAIN

Showers Predicted During Weekend; Fall In Month Below Normal

Prediction of showers for Saturday and Sunday brought smiles Friday to Pickaway county farmers.

The recent dry weather has not only delayed planting but is causing damage to crops. Some peas are in bloom. Stems have been shortened by the dry weather. Rains are needed to assist the crop, farmers report. They contend that continued dry weather will cause short straw on wheat. Pastures are showing the effects of the dry weather.

Planting of corn and soybeans has been delayed on some farms by the dry weather. Ground that was not worked before the recent dry weather has become too hard to be worked and planted.

Although heavy rains fell during April, the precipitation to date this month amounts to only .48 of an inch. Normal for the entire month is about three inches.

The high temperature Thursday was 87. Lowest during the night was 59.

MOVE TO REDUCE SUNDY CLAIMS BILL DEFEATED

COLUMBUS, May 19—Although failing to allow a single amendment increasing the $476,000 sundries claims bill, the house today turned down a proposal to slash it 20 percent before approving the bill by a vote of 99 to 10.

Rep. Walter Tarr (R-Hamilton) offered the amendment, which would have reduced the measure $95,000. The house membership defeated the amendment, 50 to 44, on a standing vote.

FRANCO'S MOVE AWAITED

Polish Newspaper Suggests That Danzig, Corridor Crisis May End

By International News Service

A growing disposition to liquidate peacefully its own most troublesome problems came to the fore in Europe today, with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's striking new bid to Nazi Germany the most significant development.

Chamberlain in effect called on Adolf Hitler to renounce all aggressive aims as the price for solution of the main issue blocking Anglo-German friendship — that of the colonies seized after the World War.

The prime minister was relentless in his accusations that Hitler had upset the security of Europe by his ruthless absorption of smaller countries, and for this reason Chamberlain can hardly expect a favorable "press" in Germany. But it must not be overlooked that he offered adjustment of the entire existing state of things in behalf of a long-term period of peace if the Fuehrer will prove himself a collaborator and not a conqueror alone.

Results of the prime minister's address may be far-reaching, for it came at a moment when the groundwork seemingly was being laid for liquidation of other European problems, not the least of which was the presence of Italian and German troops on Spanish soil.

CHILDREN WATCH CLEVELAND MAN SHOOT HIS WIFE

CLEVELAND, May 19 — Formal charges were to be placed today against Stephen Staron, 30, who, police said, shot and killed his wife, Elva, 30, in the presence of their two small children.

Sergeant James Hogan of the homicide squad said the Cleveland hardware merchant admitted the shooting and dictated a confession, but refused to sign the statement.

Staron, Hogan said, shot his wife when she threatened to leave him. The daughters, Shirley, 11, and Bonnie, 7, had pleaded with their mother to remain at home, according to Hogan.

The shooting took place in a small room at the rear of Staron's hardware store.

Hogan said that Mrs. Staron threatened to leave her family and that Staron asked the children to plead with her. When their entreaties failed to move her, Staron reached into a drawer for a .38 caliber revolver and fired four shots, two of which pierced his wife's heart, Hogan declared.

The children and Staron were hysterical when Anthony McNeely, a neighbor entered the store after he heard the shots. McNeely said Staron was calling police at the time.

LINDBERGH NAMED 'TOOL' BY EX-BRITISH PREMIER

LONDON, May 19 — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was criticized by David Lloyd George in the House of Commons today for allegedly acting as a "tool" in his report describing German military aviation as superior to that of Soviet Russia.

"He is an amiable, attractive man," Lloyd George said, "who was the agent and tool of a much more sinister man than himself."

Montreal in 1924 held a tremendous holiday in honor of the Prince of Wales but natives say that Montreal's two and a half million turnout yesterday surpassed anything the city ever has seen before.

From the moment the royal couple left its silver and blue palace-on-rails at Park street station in the early afternoon until they boarded it again at Windsor street, late at night to be taken to a secret siding for the night, Montreal waved its flags and rang its bells and tooted its horns in a perfect frenzy of enthusiasm.

Eleven hundred persons crowded into the civil banquet held in the Hotel, not to hear flowery oratory for there wasn't a single speech but simply to sit in the same room with their majesties, to warm in the wholesome smile of the Queen and steal side glances at the finely chiseled features of the King.

FOUNDRY LOSES OVER MILLION IN PITTSBURGH FIRE

PITTSBURGH, May 19—The Pittsburgh Gray-Iron Foundry company's plant was a mass of twisted and charred debris today, reduced to ruin by a blazing inferno that cost the firm an estimated $1,250,000.

While more than 5,000 spectators watched, firemen from the northside and downtown districts battled for two hours late last night before bringing the blaze under control and eliminating the threat of fire to nearby tenement buildings.

Fire Chief Nicholas Phelan estimated damage at $60,000 but later, General Manager R. F. Holtz added, the plant and machinery cost about $250,000, and metal patterns "worth a million dollars," owned by 85 other firms and stored in the building, were either destroyed or damaged beyond use.

The case is scheduled to go on trial Monday before Judge Phil Henderson, of Logan. Mr. McCrady asks $13,361.40 for the death of his son in an auto and truck collision on Route 23, north of Circleville, on March 13, 1936.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19 — Seized by G-men in a Greenwich Village apartment in New York, Mrs. Rose Carina, so-called "kiss of death woman" long-sought in connection with Philadelphia's insurance-murder ring faced a hearing on homicide charges today.

Brought back to this city from which she fled at outset of the poison probe, Mrs. Carina was rushed to an unidentified police station for questioning. Arrested with the alleged "Lorelei" of the poison plot was Antonio Mastro, a barber who was accused of aiding her flight from Lakewood, N. J.

Reports that Mrs. Carina has "talked" circulated freely around city hall after detectives sent an emergency call for a stenographer. Rumor had it that au-

CROPS MENACED BY LACK OF RAIN

Showers Predicted During Weekend; Fall In Month Below Normal

Prediction of showers for Saturday and Sunday brought smiles Friday to Pickaway county farmers.

The recent dry weather has not only delayed planting but is causing damage to crops. Some peas are in bloom. Stems have been shortened by the dry weather. Rains are needed to assist the crop, farmers report.

They contend that continued dry weather will cause short straw on wheat. Pastures are showing the effects of the dry weather.

Planting of corn and soybeans has been delayed on some farms by the dry weather. Ground that was not worked before the recent dry weather has become too hard to be worked and planted.

Although heavy rains fell during April, the precipitation to date this month amounts to only .48 of an inch. Normal for the entire month is about three inches.

The high temperature Thursday was 87. Lowest during the night was 59.

MOVE TO REDUCE SUNDRY CLAIMS BILL DEFEATED

COLUMBUS, May 19—Although failing to allow a single amendment increasing the $476,000 sundries claims bill, the house today turned down a proposal to slash it 20 percent before approving the bill by a vote of 99 to 10.

Rep. Walter Tarr (R-Hamilton) offered the amendment, which would have reduced the measure $95,000. The house membership defeated the amendment, 50 to 44, on a standing vote.

Polish Newspaper Suggests That Danzig, Corridor Crisis May End

By International News Service

A growing disposition to liquidate peacefully its own most troublesome problems came to the fore in Europe today, with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's striking new bid to Nazi Germany the most significant development.

Chamberlain in effect called on Adolf Hitler to renounce all aggressive aims as the price for solution of the main issue blocking Anglo-German friendship — that of the colonies seized after the World War.

The prime minister was relentless in his accusations that Hitler had upset the security of Europe by his ruthless absorption of smaller countries, and for this reason Chamberlain can hardly expect a favorable "press" in Germany. But it must not be overlooked that he offered adjustment of the entire existing state of things in behalf of a long-term period of peace if the Fuehrer will prove himself a collaborator and not a conqueror alone.

Results of the prime minister's address may be far-reaching, for it came at a moment when the groundwork seemingly was being laid for liquidation of other European problems, not the least of which was the presence of Italian and German troops on Spanish soil.

CHILDREN WATCH CLEVELAND MAN SHOOT HIS WIFE

CLEVELAND, May 19 — Formal charges were to be placed today against Stephen Staron, 30, who, police said, shot and killed his wife, Elva, 30, in the presence of their two small children.

Sergeant James Hogan of the homicide squad said the Cleveland hardware merchant admitted the shooting and dictated a confession, but refused to sign the statement.

Staron, Hogan said, shot his wife when she threatened to leave him. The daughters, Shirley, 11, and Bonnie, 7, had pleaded with their mother to remain at home, according to Hogan.

The shooting took place in a small room at the rear of Staron's hardware store.

Hogan said that Mrs. Staron threatened to leave her family and that Staron asked the children to plead with her. When their entreaties failed to move her, Staron reached into a drawer for a .38 caliber revolver and fired four shots, two of which pierced his wife's heart, Hogan declared.

The children and Staron were hysterical when Anthony McNeely, a neighbor entered the store after he heard the shots. McNeely said Staron was calling police at the time.

Licavoli Given Steaks And Toast, Declares Witness In Woodard Hearing

PRISON VISIT PLANNED

Plak Admits Knowledge Of Gambling; Fund Transfer To Inmate Discussed

COLUMBUS, May 19—Accompanied by prosecution and defense attorneys, the state Civil Service Commission today was slated to inspect the arsenal at Ohio penitentiary and then at 1:30 p. m. resume hearings in the ouster procedure against James C. Woodard, former prison warden.

Commission Members Ralph Emmons and Carl Smith planned to go to the penitentiary to look over the arsenal and generally check the firearm situation within prison walls.

The hearing yesterday afternoon was featured by testimony of Bruno Kachynski, a Montgomery county convict, that Yonnie Licavoli, Toledo gangster, dined in a manner befitting a king.

Kachynski said he and Licavoli were employed in the vegetable "department" of the prison kitchen, and that Licavoli had a "special diet often consisting of steak, buttered toast and milk."

Yonnie Complained

The witness said that on at least one occasion, he heard Licavoli complain to prison officials that the steaks were "tough." Kachynski added that Licavoli once received three huge, wooden boxes of food supplies including salami, imported cheeses, canned goods and duck.

Another time, the witness stated, Licavoli was visited by three men, one of whom turned over a "roll of money" to the Toledo prisoner.

The defense tried unsuccessfully to have stricken from the records testimony offered by Harry Weiss, Cleveland robber, to the effect that Woodard had approved a transfer of $1,000 from the account of Frank Mandel, another prisoner, to Weiss.

Weiss said he turned the $1,000 over to Harry Karr, Cleveland attorney, on Karr's promise that "I would get a transfer to London Prison Farm and then go home."

Karr said he got his transfer several months later. He is still at London.

Deputy Warden August Plak, now on sick leave, testified that he was aware of gambling and smuggling of whisky in the prison but endeavored to punish offenders whenever they were ferreted out. He said firearm instruction for guards had been lax since 1935.

Oakley Spaght, chief of the department of business administration of the state welfare department, was on the stand briefly, explaining welfare department records.

OHIO UNIVERSITY GRADUATES TWO AT JUNE 5 RITE

Two Circleville students at Ohio University will be graduated June 5 with the largest graduating class ever to leave the school.

Joseph Bell, of 108 Northridge road, will graduate from the Commerce School. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi social fraternity, member of the Hygiene Club, and vice president of the Delta Pi Alpha honorary fraternity.

Donald Olen White, of 604 S. Scioto street, will graduate from the Commerce School. He is a member of the Quadrangle Club. Professor Clarence A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, will address the commencement audience. Commencement will include the annual academic procession to Memorial Auditorium where degrees will be presented.

Up here all the way from Lucasville were two young men advertising what they called "Daredevil Auto races" scheduled to be held there in the newly W.P.A. constructed fair grounds. Expected to have a big time of it, they said. Date, Sunday, May 28.

Mrs. Rancy Petty and little Joyce Carol are spending this weekend with relatives in Columbus. Rancy, taking a four-month electrical course at a Chicago school, has three more weeks in which to complete his work.

The old school grounds on Long street has undergone a complete resurfacing and sown to grass seed and with the shrubbery, will be the beauty yard of the village.

In so far as study periods are concerned, today, Friday, completes the school term. Baccalaureate services Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at the United Brethren church, the sermon being delivered by the pastor, Rev. O. W. Smith.

Commencement exercises will be held for the graduating class Monday evening in the school auditorium, the speaker, Prof. William Craig. Salutatory, Verda Bell; class history, Mary Margaret Carley; class poem, Helen Kibbee; class prophecy, Paul Nance; class will, James Nedde; valedictory, Kathryn Thompson. Presentation of diplomas, County Supt. George D. McDowell. The local school orchestra will furnish music.

Miss June Snyder was honored with a farewell Wednesday evening at the home of Edna Hunt. An enjoyable evening was spent by the following: Francis Huber, Beva Smith, Ruth Sark, Irene Smith, Esther Smith, Mary Jane Higley, Erna Bowers, Bill Martin, Betty Hunt, Joan Tosca, Helen Irwin, Thelma Ray, George Forquer, A. J. Kauber, and the guest of honor, June Snyder.

"Mr. Watson! Come here! I want you!"

So ran the first complete sentence ever heard over the telephone, excitedly shouted by Alexander Graham Bell when laboratory acid burned a hole in his pants! It was heard by his assistant, Thomas A. Watson, who was so impressed by the importance of the event he immediately set it down in his note book among a myriad of diagrams of experimental phones.

"The occasion had not been arranged and rehearsed as I suspect the sending of the first message over the Morse telegraph had been years before," Watson declared "for instead of that noble first telegraphic message—'What hath God wrought?'—the first message of the telephone was rather unimpressive. Perhaps, if Mr. Bell had realized he was about to make a bit of history, he would have been prepared with a more sounding and interesting sentence."

One of America's most thrilling stories, it is told with power, humor and profound humanity in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," opening Sunday at the Grand theatre. Another immortal character joins the motion picture gallery of the great in this Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox, in which Don Ameche (in the title role), Loretta Young (as Mabel Hubbard) and Henry Fonda (as Tom Watson) share top honors. "Midnight brings out the stars!" The truth behind the current Hollywood saying is proved by the picture which inspired it. For the new Paramount comedy, "Midnight," which opens next Sunday at the Cliftona theatre, has more famous names in its cast than any other production of the year. The list is a long and spectacular one, beginning with Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche, the co-stars, and including John Barrymore, Francis Lederer, Mary Astor, Hedda Hopper, Rex O'Malley and Elaine Barrie. The last named is, of course, the young wife of Barrymore, now making her first appearance on the screen.

"Midnight" was written especially with an eye on Miss Colbert's unique personality and style of acting, and is reminiscent in spirit of her outstanding success of a season ago, "I Met Him in Paris." The script, written by Charles Brackett and Billy Wilder, based on a story by Edwin J. Mayer and Franz Schulz, tells of a beautiful American fortune-hunter who falls in love with a Paris taxi-driver but leaves him to stalk bigger game in high society. Ameche, now to be seen with Miss Colbert for the first time, plays the romantic caddy.

U. S. Army Arranges Major
Games With 100,000
Men Included

Circleville members of the 136th Field Artillery of the Ohio National Guard will go to Camp Knox, Ky., Aug. 18 for a training period to extend until Labor Day, Sept. 4. Joseph Lynch is lieutenant and executive officer of the Circleville unit, a branch of the 62nd Field Artillery Brigade, O. N. G.

The medical detachment leaves for Camp Perry on July 2.

Col. Harry D. Jackson will go to Camp Perry on July 30 for 15 days with the 112th medical regiment of the Ohio National Guard, of which he is commanding officer.

WASHINGTON, May 19 — The U. S. army will put 100,000 troops through rigorous war-time maneuvers this summer in six areas throughout the nation.

The war department today announced that the largest war games will be held by the First Army from August 5 to August 27 in the vicinity of Plattsburg, N. S., and Manassas, Va. Troops from the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Corps areas will participate.

Approximately 44,000 troops, including National Guard units of the First and Second Corps areas will take part in maneuvers around Plattsburg from August 13 to August 27.

From August 5 to the 19th, 22,000 troops from the Third Corps area, both regular army and National Guard, will hold maneuvers near Manassas.

Other maneuvers will be held as follows:

Fourth Corps area—May 15 to 20 at Fort Benning, Ga., 6,700 troops.

Fifth Corps area—May 25 and 26, seventh mechanized cavalry brigade and 10th infantry brigade, with 6,000 troops at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Beverage Alcohol and the Home

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 21 is Jeremiah 35:5-10; Ephesians 5:15-21; 6:1-4, the Golden Text being Leviticus 10:9. "Drink no wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee.")

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

TODAY WE have another lesson on strong drink and how it affects the happiness of our homes.

The first story told in our lesson is one we've heard before, but which bears repeating. It is the tale of Jeremiah, who, at the behest of the Lord, tempted the descendants of Rechabites with wine. Rechab had admonished his sons never to drink wine nor to live in houses, nor to plant vineyards, but to live in tents. Jeremiah set pots and cups of wine before the grandsons of this man and told them to drink. But they would not, saying, "We have obeyed the voice of Jonadab the son of Rechab our father in all that he hath charged us, to drink no wine all our days, we, our wives, our sons, nor our daughters."

It must have been hard for these men, guests in a house, to refuse their host's invitation, but they showed their courage by declining.

In Leviticus the Lord spoke unto Aaron, Moses' brother, saying: "Do not drink wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die: it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations."

We always associate Daniel with the lions' den and his deliverance from its danger, but here is another story about him. When he was a boy he lived for a time in the house of the king

Nebuchadnezzar. This king had overcome Jehorakim, King of Judah, and he had told the captain of the eunuchs to find some young Israelite boys and bring them to his palace and educate them.

Daniel was one of these lads and they were given meat and wine from the king's own table. Daniel, a follower of the law that Aaron had expounded, didn't want to drink the wine and so told Ashpenaz, head of the eunuchs, who was friendly to him. The man said he had received orders that the boys were to eat what was given them, so what could he do?

Daniel then asked him to let him try an experiment. Four of them, Daniel, Shadrach, Beshach and Abednego, were to be allowed to eat only pulse (a vegetable diet) and drink water for ten days, then their appearance was to be compared with those who had been on a diet prescribed by the King. They were allowed to carry on the experiment, and God gave the boys great wisdom besides, so the Bible says, so that at the end of the test they were found to be superior in every respect to the other boys, and they won and "stood before the king."

Over-indulgence in wine or other alcoholic liquors often is responsible for wrecking what otherwise might be happy homes. Paul gives very good advice to those early Christians in Ephesians 5, when he says in a letter to them: "See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise," and later in the chapter, "And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit; speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord; giving thanks always for all things unto

God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Then in Ephesians 6 he says: "Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right."

"Honour thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise; that it may be well with thee, and thou mayst live long on the earth."

"And ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath; but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord."

You can see that it is important that all who make up a household do their part to make the home a happy one. If one person is intemperate—not only in over-indulgence in intoxicating drinks, but in eating too much, demanding too many clothes, in having one's own way all the time—it makes for unhappiness. Love is the great foundation on which the real home is built, and real love respects the other person's rights.

You grown-ups who can look back on happy childhood spent in congenial homes can, for the sake of your children give up your own intemperance, whatever it may be.

And you children can obey Paul's injunction to obey and honor your parents and so contribute your part to make home sweeter.

SEARCH STARTS FOR FAIRFIELD WIFE MURDERER

always friendly, and that they were never known to quarrel until the last month.

Mrs. Moore's survivors include the mother, Mrs. W. A. Scheaf of Columbus. The step-father died less than a month ago. She leaves two brothers, Clarence England, Pickerington, Harry England, Columbus; a step-sister, Mrs. A. W. Knoderer, Akron; a step-brother, Earl Scheaf, Columbus, and a half-brother, Oral Scheaf, also of Columbus.

Investigating officers were unable to exactly determine the time of the murder, but believed Mrs. Moore had been killed sometime between 7 and 11 a. m. Tuesday and her body secreted in the closet.

The five men who made up the searching party included Clifford Moore, brother of the dead woman's husband, Stanley Badger, Brooks Huntwork, Ralph Elbright and Henry Huntwork, all of Pickerington.

Village's Second Murder
The village, located in the northern corner of the county in Violet-township, was all agog when news of the finding of the woman's body spread. A large crowd gathered at the house.

It was Pickerington's second murder in three years. In November of 1936 the body of Mrs. Edna Kinsel was found in a farm home near the village. Her husband, Leland Kinsel, who confessed he operated a still at the home, was convicted of second degree murder by a Fairfield jury and is now serving a life sentence in Ohio penitentiary.

Moore, who was described as a man of steady habits, who did not drink or gamble, was employed by the New York Central railroad as a section hand before gaining employment with the power company at its Big Walnut plant.

TWO ARRESTED FOR SWINDLING NEWARK, O., MAN

NEWARK, May 19—Two Covington, Ky., men accused of attempting to swindle a Newark dealer in the sale of cigarettes were held by police today while an effort was made to determine whether they are wanted in other towns. They gave their names as Thomas Cannon, 36, and Clifford Brown, 35.

Police Chief Curtis Berry said Cannon admitted having a prison record. The pair allegedly offered the Newark merchant a large carton of cigarettes for $30, half price. When police examined the carton, they found that only one of the smaller inside cartons contained cigarettes. The others were filled with sawdust.

DIES DECLARES ANTI-SEMITIC DRIVE STARTED

testimony disclosed as read and related to newsmen late last night by Dies and members of the committee:

In 1937, Dudley Pierrepont Gilbert, who with his wife, Adrienne Iselin Gilbert, is listed in the New York social register as residents at fashionable 610 Park Ave. (Mayfair House), became convinced that there was authenticity to secret reports that were being supplied him by a waiter in an exclusive New York club involving its members in a plot to seize control of the government. These members were described as "prominent officials of the government, both state and federal, big businessmen and financiers" and the reports purported to be shorthand transcripts of their confidential conversations.

Gilbert, who was on the witness stand most of yesterday, told the committee that he made an arrangement with Campbell to have the latter distribute these reports to 40 selected persons on a "highly confidential" basis. Over a period of the last 22 months he paid Campbell $8,000 for these services, and in addition recently sent him $1,000 to start the construction of a "re-treat" in Kentucky to which he, Gilbert, could flee when the revolution came—"so convinced was I that it is coming."

Dies said the committee received sworn testimony from an "impartial witness" that copies of these reports which the witness had received unsolicited had predicted 12 days in advance that the French commission would come to the United States to buy planes; 10 days in advance that James Roosevelt would go to England; and also in advance that the fleet would be ordered back from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Dies emphasized that it was these predictions which came to pass that gave "plausibility to the inflammatory and fantastic statements that followed," adding that in his opinion, this compounded the "danger and cleverness of the propaganda."

In addition to the "confidential" reports, the speeches of General Moseley and the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the Detroit "radio" priest, have also been distributed to the select 40, and to 160 more persons described as "equally prominent," Gilbert testified. Deatherage entered the picture as the man who introduced Campbell to Gilbert, while Campbell's files, seized by the committee, contained numerous communications exchanged between Campbell, Deatherage and General Moseley relative to the organization for an "American Jewish war" to be "fought with money and propaganda instead of rifles."

CHICAGO, May 19—John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, today denied as false the "innuendo" that he personally carried on correspondence mentioned in charges by the Dies committee that it had uncovered an anti-Semitic plot.

Said Hamilton: "The innuendo carried in the (Dies) statement is false. I do not say such a letter might not have gone through our headquarters . . . but if it is sought to convey the impression that I was personally carrying on any such correspondence then I brand it as a falsehood."

gratify the personal ambitions of Hitler and Premier Mussolini by participating today in the razzle-dazzle of a triumphant parade of conquest in Madrid.

According to prior agreement, they are now to be returned to their homes along with their medals and bullet-tattered flags. It remains to be seen whether Franco will make good his pledge to eject with them every last vestige of Italian and German influence in the country he has conquered.

For years the leftist press has charged that Franco had agreed to pay for this Nazi and Fascist foreign aid by giving Germany and Italy huge trade and mineral concessions in the new Spain, perhaps even allowing them naval and air bases in the Balearic and Canary islands. Franco, however, personally promised Chamberlain that his would be a Spain free from foreign domination once today's victory parade was completed.

If this promise is kept, Spain will cease to be a grave international issue for the first time since a communist-inspired gang assassinated Senor Calvo Sotillo on June 18, 1936, and touched off the bloodiest civil war of modern times.

Polish Situation Eases
Further East in Europe there were favorable developments also. The official Polish newspaper Gazeta Polska, outstanding champion thus far of stern resistance to Germany, expressed belief that a "reasonable settlement" of the Danzig and Polish Corridor problems is not beyond the realm of possibility. Berlin welcomed this conciliatory gesture, but naturally looked to Poland to take the initiative, emphasizing that all along Hitler never mentioned war as a solution of the problem.

The "uneasy peace" predicted for the summer continues in effect, but the day's developments give rise to new hopes that a "real peace" may some day succeed it.

COURT CLEARED FOR TESTIMONY IN TALLEY CASE

NEW YORK, May 19—Referee Richard P. Lydon today cleared the courtroom where Marion Talley is suing for custody of her four-year-old daughter, Susan, to permit testimony of an intimate nature before only the referee and in presence of the little girl's parents.

Miss Talley, former grand opera star, is suing her husband, Adolph Eckstrom, from whom she is separated and in whom custody of the child is now lodged.

The request for clearance of the room was made by her counsel, John Keith, when Fred Sitterly of California took the stand to tell of visits made by Miss Talley to the home of Aubrey Scott, former movie director. Miss Talley had not yet finished her case and when Eckstrom's counsel, Frank Delaney, asked permission to call Sitterly out of turn, Keith rose to declare:

"There is going to be some unpleasant notoriety in the testimony of this witness. In the best interests of the child I think that only her parents should hear it. I ask that the courtroom be cleared, and I particularly ask that the witness' wife should leave."

The well-filled courtroom was emptied immediately by the referee's accession to Keith's request.

WOMAN'S COMPLAINT TRUE

CHICAGO, May 19—"I haven't a thing to wear!" declared Mrs. Florence Ellis today and police revealed no woman ever had a more perfect right to that claim. While Mrs. Ellis and her husband were being toasted at a farewell party given them by friends as they prepared to leave on a European trip, robbers broke into the Ellis automobile and stole all Mrs. Ellis' carefully packed clothing—$600 worth.

MARTHA MCKINLEY DIES

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Jane McKinley, 67, wife of Sherman McKinley, who died at her home in Derby, will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Derby Methodist church. Burial will be in the Mt. cillation today," Connor said. He added that he hoped to discuss the situation during the day with individual operators and union leaders, with a view to bringing them together.

Aiding Connor was Emmett Durrett, representing the Kentucky Department of Industrial Relations.

Totz Situation Tense

As the peace efforts got under way, however, an atmosphere of war continued tenseness along the county's mine front. At Totz, more than 100 troopers pointed fixed bayonets at all persons approaching the Harlan-Central mine, where yesterday sniping from a group in ambush was reported.

When workers complained that sniping from the surrounding mountainside and threats from pickets made it impossible for them to enter the mine, National Guard reinforcements moved to the scene and broke up a 24-hour picket line. Prodding the strikers at bayonet point, the guardsmen forced them back almost half a mile from the mine tipples, from which point they were told they would advance at their peril. Operations at the mine were interrupted after the sniping but were expected to be resumed today.

Although guardsmen did not return fire against the Totz snipers, they did blaze back with their rifles at a mine near Harlan, where six miners reported they had been shot at from ambush. The ambushed riflemen were not caught and no arrests were made.

Carter Warns of Danger

Brig. Gen. Ellerbe Carter, in command of all National Guardsmen in the district, announced that any more sniping or shooting would result in concentrated return fire from troops with machine guns and other weapons. Kentucky's entire National Guard, numbering close to 3,000 men already under orders to stand by for duty in Harlan, will be called into the county unless the disorders cease, Carter said.

The commander said he didn't know whether he would permit unionists to hold a scheduled mass meeting Sunday, indicating permission for the meeting would be refused unless peace has been fully restored by that time.

"I was born in England," she said simply and the way she said it indicated that there was nothing else to say—it was the explanation complete.

What eastern Canada seems to find to admire most in the royal couple is the clean cut of the boyish looking King and the sweet radiant charm of the Queen.

Today after two days of intensive activity, their program is comparatively light because three days have been allotted to Ottawa. Instead of five minute appearances at a dozen places spotted miles apart, they will spend most of the day in Government House, the residence of Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir.

Here the King will receive Daniel C. Roper, newly appointed minister to Canada who will for the first time in the history of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Dominions, present his credentials directly to his majesty.

Later in the day the King and Queen will receive the press correspondents who are accompanying them on tour.

THREE ROBBERY SUSPECTS HELD BY PATROLMEN

LIMA, May 19—Shortly after a filling station was held up in nearby Delphos, state highway patrolmen today captured three bandit suspects at Beaverdam, northeast of Lima.

The bandit trio entered the Delphos station, owned by Fred Schramm, while Mrs. Schramm was alone, taking $12. Schramm arrived just as they left and pursued them on U. S. Route 30. Meantime, Mrs. Schramm notified police, furnishing them with Schramm's license number.

State highway patrolmen located the fleeing bandits by this means and took up the chase. Several shots were exchanged before the trio abandoned their car at Beaverdam. One suspect surrendered immediately and the other two fled into the fields but were captured without resistance.

always friendly, and that they were never known to quarrel until the last month.

Mrs. Moore's survivors include the mother, Mrs. W. A. Scheaf of Columbus. The step-father died less than a month ago. She leaves two brothers, Clarence England, Pickerington, Harry England, Columbus; a step-sister, Mrs. A. W. Knoderer, Akron; a step-brother, Earl Scheaf, Columbus, and a half-brother, Oral Scheaf, also of Columbus.

Investigating officers were unable to exactly determine the time of the murder, but believed Mrs. Moore had been killed sometime between 7 and 11 a. m. Tuesday and her body secreted in the closet.

The five men who made up the searching party included Clifford Moore, brother of the dead woman's husband, Stanley Badger, Brooks Huntwork, Ralph Ebright and Henry Huntwork, all of Pickerington.

Village's Second Murder
The village, located in the northern corner of the county in Violet-township, was all agog when news of the finding of the woman's body spread. A large crowd gathered at the house.

It was Pickerington's second murder in three years. In November of 1936 the body of Mrs. Edna Kinsel was found in a farm home near the village. Her husband, Leland Kinsel, who confessed he operated a still at the home, was convicted of second degree murder by a Fairfield jury and is now serving a life sentence in Ohio penitentiary.

Moore, who was described as a man of steady habits, who did not drink or gamble, was employed by the New York Central railroad as a section hand before gaining employment with the power company at its Big Walnut plant.

gratify the personal ambitions of Hitler and Premier Mussolini by participating today in the razzle-dazzle of a triumphal parade of conquest in Madrid.

According to prior agreement, they are now to be returned to their homes along with their medals and bullet-tattered flags. It remains to be seen whether Franco will make good his pledge to eject with them every last vestige of Italian and German influence in the country he has conquered.

For years the leftist press has charged that Franco had agreed to pay for the Nazi and Fascist foreign aid by giving Germany and Italy huge trade and mineral concessions in the new Spain, perhaps even allowing them naval and air bases in the Balearic and Canary islands. Franco, however, personally promised Chamberlain that his would be a Spain free from foreign domination once today's victory parade was completed.

If this promise is kept, Spain will cease to be a grave international issue for the first time since a communist-inspired gang assassinated Senor Calvo Sotillo on June 18, 1936, and touched off the bloodiest civil war of modern times.

Polish Situation Eases
Further East in Europe there were favorable developments also. The official Polish newspaper Gazeta Polska, outstanding champion thus far of stern resistance to Germany, expressed belief that a "reasonable settlement" of the Danzig and Polish Corridor problems is not beyond the realm of possibility. Berlin welcomed this conciliatory gesture, but naturally looked to Poland to take the initiative, emphasizing that all along Hitler never mentioned war as a solution of the problem.

The "uneasy peace" predicted for the Summer continues in effect, but the day's developments give rise to new hopes that a "real peace" may some day succeed it.

HIDDEN GUNMEN WARNED TROOPS TO RETURN FIRE

Connor Arrives At Scene Of Union-Operator Controversy

conciliation today," Connor said. He added that he hoped to discuss the situation during the day with individual operators and union leaders, with a view to bringing them together.

Aiding Connor was Emmett Durrett, representing the Kentucky Department of Industrial Relations.

Totz Situation Tense

As the peace efforts got under way, however, an atmosphere of war continued to tense along the county's mine front. At Totz, more than 100 troopers pointed fixed bayonets at all persons approaching the Harlan-Central mine, where yesterday sniping from a group in ambush was reported.

When workers complained that sniping from the surrounding mountainside and threats from pickets made it impossible for them to enter the mine, National Guard reinforcements moved to the scene and broke up a 24-hour picket line. Prodding the strikers at bayonet point, the guardsmen forced them back almost half a mile from the mine tipple, from which point they were told they would advance at their peril. Operations at the mine were interrupted after the sniping but were expected to be resumed today.

Although guardsmen did not return fire against the Totz snipers, they did blaze back with their rifles at a mine near Harlan, where six miners reported they had been shot at from ambush. The ambushed riflemen were not caught and no arrests were made.

Carter Warns of Danger
Brig. Gen. Ellerbe Carter, in command of all National Guardsmen in the district, announced that any more sniping or shooting would result in concentrated return fire from troops with machine guns and other weapons. Kentucky's entire National Guard, numbering close to 3,000 men already under orders to stand by for duty in Harlan, will be called into the county unless the disorders cease, Carter said.

The commander said he didn't know whether he would permit unionists to hold a scheduled mass meeting Sunday, indicating permission for the meeting would be refused unless peace has been fully restored by that time.

"I was born in England," she said simply and the way she said it indicated that there was nothing else to say—it was the explanation complete.

What eastern Canada seems to find to admire most in the royal couple is the clean cut of the boyish looking King and the sweet radiant charm of the Queen.

Today after two days of intensive activity, their program is comparatively light because three days have been allotted to Ottawa. Instead of five minute appearances at a dozen places spotted miles apart, they will spend most of the day in Government House, the residence of Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir.

Here the King will receive Daniel C. Roper, newly appointed minister to Canada who will for the first time in the history of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Dominions, present his credentials directly to his majesty.

Later in the day the King and

THREE ROBBERY SUSPECTS HELD BY PATROLMEN

LIMA, May 19—Shortly after a filling station was held up in nearby Delphos, state highway patrolmen today captured three bandit suspects at Beaverdam, northeast of Lima.

The bandit trio entered the Delphos station, owned by Fred Schramm, while Mrs. Schramm was alone, taking $12. Schramm arrived just as they left and pursued them on U. S. Route 30. Meantime, Mrs. Schramm notified police, furnishing them with Schramm's license number.

State highway patrolmen located the fleeing bandits by this means and took up the chase. Several shots were exchanged before the trio abandoned their car at Beaverdam. One suspect surrendered immediately and the other two fled into the fields but were captured without resistance.

HOUSE MAY CUT SUNDY CLAIMS MEASURE AGAIN

Senate Slashes Items Off
Bill, Then Sends It To Lower Chamber

ANTI-GRAFT VOTE NEAR

Schorr Expected To File His Objections; Bricker For Final Approval

COLUMBUS, May 19 — With most of the burden of completing important legislation resting on the senate, the house scheduled a working session today to vote on the sundry claims bill, reduced to $476,000 by the finance committee.

There were prospects that the bill might be further reduced by amendments on the floor, although passage of the measure was predicted by house leaders. In its original form it called for payment of claims amounting to $486,000.

The only other major bill in the lower branch was the relief administrative act which the welfare committee expected to report out Monday for a vote on Wednesday.

Anti-Graft Held Up

Meanwhile, the anti-graft bill which stirred up a tempest this week that led to reports that Republican State Chairman Ed D. Schorr and Governor Bricker had split affiliations remained in the senate rules committee. The indications were that it would reach a vote in the upper chamber Tuesday or Wednesday.

Schorr, senate leaders said, will file a memorandum of his objections to the bill on Monday. It was understood that the chairman believed the bill too stringent, but the governor and the senate leadership have held that the measure must pass in some form.

Introduced by Rep. Cyril Culp (R-Lucas) it would provide for penalties for persons convicted of conspiring to defraud the state in the sale of supplies and materials.

As amended by the house, it would allow the attorney general to call grand jury sessions in any county where conspiracy was suspected and there was some objection to this feature as giving the attorney general too broad powers.

Old age pensioners, on application, would have property deeded in trust to the state restored to them under the terms of a bill passed by the house yesterday, 107 to 14. The bill must be acted on by the senate.

It approved an increase of pensions to a maximum of $40 a month if the federal government decides to provide additional funds to all states for payment of half the cost.

Bills Must Be Paid

The bill also exempts insurance policies in excess of $250 being turned over to the state and provides that the state's claim for reimbursement from the estate of a deceased pensioner be held up until funeral and doctor's bills are paid.

Allowance of 12 months support for surviving widows and children also was made.

It has been estimated by old age pensions officials that liberalizing of the system would cost the state $3,500,000 a year, with equal matching by the federal government.

The present pension maximum is $30, but only about 10 percent of Ohio's pensioners receive the maximum award.

A conference committee was requested in the house on a bill to provide more rigid qualifications for real estate brokers and salesmen.

The senate turned down house amendments to the Hoffman bill prohibiting speculation in cemetery lots by real brokers and salesmen and the house requested the conference committee after insisting on the amendments.

The general appropriation bill will have another hearing in the senate finance committee today and again on Tuesday as the

Heir Dead In Fight

GIVEN a "terrific blow" to the head during an altercation at a picnic near Bradenton, Fla., Potter D'Orsay Palmer, socially prominent Chicago heir, succumbed to his injuries in a Sarasota, Fla., hospital. leadership pressed for a vote on the measure by Thursday.

A proposal to make the Civil Service Commission a body of four members will be acted upon in the senate Tuesday, Sen. Grant P. Ward said.

The senate yesterday approved a bill legalizing increases in highway patrol salaries previously enacted but invalidated by the supreme court. The bill increases the superintendent's salary from $4,000 to $4,500 a year.

It also passed a bill permitting third parties to sue for triple damages on gambling losses.

OPEN LETTERS

TO B. P. O. ELKS

ANTLERED HERD: On several different occasions various organizations and individuals have attempted to put over a park project with success eluding them. As a result, Circleville still has no park, and, until your organization took up the question, it looked like the children of the city would go on indefinitely with only the streets in which to play. I believe that every person in Circleville would do his level best to bring about a recreation ground program, and I believe that the committee you have appointed will be able to put it over, if it finds the project worthy. A meeting will be held in the next week or two to discuss the program with representatives of Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis and Rotary. If the Elks' committee feels that the project has merit and that it can be handled without a great outlay of money, then it will report back to the lodge for action. I hope that the Elks lodge, one of the strongest in Ohio, feels that it should support the recreation ground plan. Many cities of Circleville's size boast of at least one, and in some instances, two parks. It seems to me that persons able to help provide a public playground should feel ashamed that they have never done anything about it. More power to all who are working toward a playground!

CIRCUITEER.

TO POLICE AUTHORITIES

OFFICERS: You are confronted with a murder investigation, the first in Pickaway county in a good many years, and I hope that you are able to solve it at the earliest possible moment. A man has been killed, his pockets rifled and his body tossed into a swamp in an effort to hide it as long as possible. His murderer should be forced to pay the supreme penalty. Any persons having information about the brutal crime should feel obligated to report it to the proper authorities. They will be promised protection and will be helping humanity. Circleville and Pickaway county have a splendid reputation concerning prosecution of crime that must be upheld. A conviction is imperative.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CITY OFFICIALS

EXECUTIVES: This little note is a plea to you to see that parking laws are observed in the districts where new traffic lines have been painted. Compliance with these markings will prevent accidents and reduce parking problems, now so prevalent. Failure of one motorist to park

Diplomatic Washington is gambling heavy odds that war will not break out in Europe while the king and queen of England are on this side of the Atlantic and especially while they are in this country. Not that the king has any governmental authority at home. He hasn't nearly as much of it there as the president of the United States has in this republic. Nevertheless, as per British precedent, it would be perfectly scandalous for Britain to engage in international hostilities with its nominal boss away from his native soil. It might be passable while he's in Canada, but not during his stay on this side of the border.

The conclusion is that their majesties' trip certainly would have been cancelled if the London government hadn't been confident of stalling off trouble at least until its sovereign and his consort are back again in Buckingham Palace or at Windsor or some other royal residence.

In effect, they're regarded as virtual peace hostages so long as they stay here.

HOW POPULAR ARE THEY?

Uncle Sam's officialdom is a good bit worried as to the popularity of the reception the visiting royalties receive here.

Scarcely needful to say, they'll properly usually results in several being forced to miss the lines. Pedestrian lanes—thank goodness—have been provided this year with the warning to cross only with the green light. If pedestrians fail to comply with the warning they should be reprimanded by policemen; if they abide by the law they will be doing much to protect themselves and others. One violation that I have noted many, many times is the practice of car operators in leaving their vehicles too near alleys, preventing autos leaving the alleys from making turns into main thoroughfares without driving to the center of the street. A few tags—and fines—for persons who fail to provide the proper space between their cars and the alleys would break up the practice, I believe.

CIRCUITEER.

TO KIWANIS CLUB

ORGANIZATION: The object behind the Policeman's and Fireman's Ball is an excellent one and I am happy that your project proved to be such a great success. Your own fund for underprivileged children will be increased, the policemen will be able to purchase some needed equipment for which the city has no fund, and the firemen will feel a little more secure when they start their annual campaign to prepare Christmas toys for the city's needy children. The project required a lot of work, it took a lot of time, and proved to be a grand success.

TO GRADUATING CLASS

BOYS, GIRLS: Circleville is proud of the class of 84 young men and women who will be graduated at ceremonies on June 2. The class, one of the largest in the school's history, is an excellent one; its officers have been diligent and hard-working and have done much to make their class outstanding; scholastically, the group rates very high; athletically, many of the youths in the class made names for themselves on the gridiron, the basketball court, and the track. Many honors await some of your number. Scholarships will be offered by various schools, recognition for high grades in state and district tests will be available, and the Kiwanis club keys, given annually to the boy and girl rated highest scholastically in the graduating class, will be awarded during the Commencement program. All who possibly can should be present for the graduation service. It promises to be outstanding with an able speaker scheduled to deliver the main address, high ranking students and others having important roles during the evening's exercises.

TO NEW HOLLAND ATHLETES

TEAMS: Your victory last week in the annual Pickaway county track and field meet was well-earned and proved again that New Holland's athletes are among the county's best year in and year out. If someone were to check back over the field day records in the last 10 years he would find that New Holland has been out in front on a good many occasions. Congratulations are due the youngsters who make up the various teams and their coaches who have spent much time and effort to properly condition them. Applause is due, too, to the other schools, whose athletes tried their hardest to win points and honor for their institutions. A bouquet goes to Joe Davis, sterling New Holland sprinter, whose individual ability helped put his team out in front.

The former prince has been here a time or two before, and was greatly liked.

My guess would be that the Windsors, dropping in for a weekend, would create more of a splash than their Britannic majesties. They wouldn't get such an official blow-out, but I'll bet they'd get a lot of public clamor.

Probably that's why the British government was so cold toward the duke's radio broadcast. It didn't enjoy having the duke swiping so much of the king's thunder—particularly at this juncture.

Dispatches keep saying that the duke and duchess are coming over here shortly.

If they do, they won't get the same official holler as the king and queen, but I'll bet they'll get more general attention than the royal couple.

Nevertheless, the two royalties will gum up the streets worse.

Gosh! What a pest these moguls are—obstructing traffic, the way they do—in a republic.

It's enough to make anybody a democrat.

The worst of it is that they slop over into our midst.

X-Ray is Safeguard in Thymus Troubles

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ONE OF the vivid recollections of my boyhood is that of a play-fellow who was killed suddenly in a game of baseball. We were playing scrub and he was somewhere around first base and a batted ball hit him in the chest. It was not batted very hard and the impact was not severe, but he fell down, took a few gasping breaths and passed out.

It was the first time most of us had ever seen death and, poor kids, we didn't know what it was, or what to do. Fortunately for us, it was in the days when a doctor might come by with a horse and buggy, and nice old Doctor Jenny stopped his progress and took the boy in his arms and carried him home to his mother.

The remorse of the batter passes all description. I see him now every once in a while in some nook or cranny of this wicked world, and he never fails to bring up in an awed whisper the recollection of that dreadful afternoon.

Thymic Death

I have no doubt, as I look back on it, that this was a thymic death, and that our valiant first baseman lived

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

A little longer he would have been in a state of status thymico-lymphaticus.

We described the thymus gland yesterday, that large pink mass of spongy tissue that lies in the chest just behind the breast bone. It atrophies after adolescence, after growth and maturity have occurred.

But sometimes it doesn't. Sometimes it persists and we have the picture of status thymico-lymphaticus. These individuals have a very characteristic appearance. The old doctors would say they had a lymphatic constitution. They have a pale, whitish, waxey complexion. The hair is very fine and rather scant. They are plump, well padded with fat and almost invariably blond. The tonsils and adenoids are likely to be large—the thymus is similar in structure to the tonsils (lymphoid tissue)—and they are liable to grow back again if removed.

They catch cold easily and have a very low resistance to any infection or contagion. They catch anything that is going around.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

OUTDOING THE DEALER

ONE OF THE nicest ways to get a lot of extra points, over and beyond those which have been dealt into the cards for you, lies in re-loubling a low contract which one of your opponents has doubled and which you are convinced your side can surely make, with possibly an overtrick or so. Sometimes the scores obtained this way will mount up to several times what you could get in any other manner. Hands which could not even produce a game under ordinary circumstances can thus give you a total much larger than a game would produce.

East and West were using the convention which prescribes that if East now bid a suit he would be showing strength and that a pass would put it up to his partner to act to protect himself. East therefore had to pass and West could do nothing but leave it in.

The declarer made the contract, plus an overtrick, because every time he was in the North hand he led a spade and tossed off a club, except on one round which he ruffed, when East covered the spade J with the spade Q.

North opened the bidding here with 1-Spade, to which South responded with 2-Diamonds, the absolutely correct bid, which would be made by any expert despite the fact that the suit contained no top cards and he had two biddable 4-card suits with strong tops.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

IT WAS cold and draughty in the theater. Mrs. Parrish folded her mink coat closer to her and looked at her diamond watch in the light of her neighbor's cigaret lighter.

He flicked the lighter off and jumped to his feet, shouting at the stage:

"What's the matter with you, Ellerbe? Half a dozen times I tell you the business at the carafe is out!"

Ellerbe, who was the character lead and one of the two partners in the play, "Partners Preferred," raised his eyebrows so that even Eleanor, sitting in the tenth row of the pit in the empty theater, could gauge the distance of their rise. He looked at the director, who returned his glance with a shrug.

Eleanor glanced at her watch again. She thought she ought to leave before the rehearsal was called off. Leverich would be sure to catch her ear and pour out his troubles. There was nothing that she could do, she was merely the author. It was Manheim's money that was putting on the production. She might have put her own money into it. She had a great deal of money. The royalties on her novels, serials and short stories, the financial gains from picture sales and foreign sales (she was translated in a number of foreign languages) and from royalties from her three preceding plays, had been overwhelming. After Phil had invested them well, she truly did not know how much money she had, but she knew, even with the tax deductions, it was close to half a million dollars. One magazine alone had paid her fifty thousand dollars each for four serials in the last year.

A portly man with long, flowing hair—he was Ferdinand Auchlasser who was known as the best scenic designer on Broadway—leaned over her shoulder and wheezed into her ear, "How do you like the set?"

"Perfect!" she murmured. It was, but that didn't mean that she found it attractive. It was the third act set, a living room in an upper West Side flat. It was shabby, shoddy with dull greens and browns and paper roses in a horrible vase on a sideboard. It was the perfect background for the drama to be played against it. Eleanor knew how uncannily perfect it was; it was almost a replica of her own home in her girlhood.

A shiver of distaste ran over her, distaste for the scene, distaste for the play she had written. That was why she hadn't put her own money into it; she didn't like it. She drew on heavy suede gloves and got up.

Manheim walked to the back of the theater with her. "We've got a real human drama here, Mrs. Parrish," he said.

She smiled at him.

"Nervous?" he asked.

"Shouldn't I be?" she parried. That was the proper thing to say. It would never do to tell him that she was through with it once she had written it; that she had written it only to make money.

She told him that she was expecting her car at once, though she had ordered it for a quarter of an hour later. She did not want to talk to him about the play, to stand in the lobby with a set smile on her face while she seethed inwardly. The taste of money was brassy in her mouth. She wished that she might have written something gay and sparkling, something clever. Great "human drama" indeed!

It was March, and a blustery wind tore at the moorings of her hat and flapped the skirts of her mink coat. Holding one and clutching at the other, she looked across the way. The Globe building faced her.

In the very doorway that she now faced she had stood on another March day, holding another hat secure against the March wind, another day when she had waited for Phil.

Those were her halcyon days. Those were the days when she worked with Kate, when her job had been an adventure, when Phil's wife was an adventure. She remembered the flat in Blake street. It had been gay and colorful then. It had rung with laughter. Nostalgia for those times, for the girl she had been, made her ache as if with pressure from a hand around her heart.

Where along the route of her success, that route that she had traveled swift as the wind, had that girl died and this woman—tired of the taste of success—been born?

She thought for a moment, with a twisted smile, that had she been a character in a story of her own making, she would put the thought of her family into her heroine's mind. It would be as if a great light had shown on her, guiding her back to the reality of home and children and husband.

A clock in the tower of the Globe building struck five times. Morton was late. No, the maroon town car was turning in from Eighth avenue.

"Take me to Mrs. Weathersby's," she said, getting in.

Amanda Weathersby lived far up on Fifth avenue. The big car crawled along Seventh avenue to

TO B. P. O. ELKS

ANTLERED HERD: On several different occasions various organizations and individuals have attempted to put over a park project with success eluding them. As a result, Circleville still has no park, and, until your organization took up the question, it looked like the children of the city would go on indefinitely with only the streets in which to play. I believe that every person in Circleville would do his level best to bring about a recreation ground program, and I believe that the committee you have appointed will be able to put it over, if it finds the project worthy. A meeting will be held in the next week or two to discuss the program with representatives of Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis and Rotary. If the Elks' committee feels that the project has merit and that it can be handled without a great outlay of money, then it will report back to the lodge for action. I hope that the Elks lodge, one of the strongest in Ohio, feels that it should support the recreation ground plan. Many cities of Circleville's size boast of at least one, and in some instances, two parks. It seems to me that persons able to help provide a public playground should feel ashamed that they have never done anything about it. More power to all who are working toward a playground!

TO POLICE AUTHORITIES

OFFICERS: You are confronted with a murder investigation, the first in Pickaway county in a good many years, and I hope that you are able to solve it at the earliest possible moment. A man has been killed, his pockets rifled and his body tossed into a swamp in an effort to hide it as long as possible. His murderer should be forced to pay the supreme penalty. Any persons having information about the brutal crime should feel obligated to report it to the proper authorities. They will be promised protection and will be helping humanity. Circleville and Pickaway county have a splendid reputation concerning prosecution of crime that must be upheld. A conviction is imperative.

TO CITY OFFICIALS

EXECUTIVES: This little note is a plea to you to see that parking laws are observed in the districts where new traffic lines have been painted. Compliance with these markings will prevent accidents and reduce parking problems, now so prevalent. Failure of one motorist to park properly usually results in several being forced to miss the lines. Pedestrian lanes—thank goodness—have been provided this year with the warning to cross only with the green light. If pedestrians fail to comply with the warning they should be reprimanded by policemen; if they abide by the law they will be doing much to protect themselves and others. One violation that I have noted many, many times is the practice of car operators in leaving their vehicles too near alleys, preventing autos leaving the alleys from making turns into main thoroughfares without driving to the center of the street. A few tags—and fines—for persons who fail to provide the proper space between their cars and the alleys would break up the practice, I believe.

TO KIWANIS CLUB

ORGANIZATION: The object behind the Policeman's and Fireman's Ball is an excellent one and I am happy that your project proved to be such a great success. Your own fund for underprivileged children will be increased, the policemen will be able to purchase some needed equipment for which the city has no fund, and the firemen will feel a little more secure when they start their annual campaign to prepare Christmas toys for the city's needy children. The project required a lot of work, it took a lot of time, and proved to be a grand success.

TO GRADUATING CLASS

BOYS, GIRLS: Circleville is proud of the class of 84 young men and women who will be graduated at ceremonies on June 2. The class, one of the largest in the school's history, is an excellent one; its officers have been diligent and hard-working and have done much to make their class outstanding; scholastically, the group rates very high; athletically, many of the youths in the class made names for themselves on the gridiron, the basketball court, and the track. Many honors await some of your number. Scholarships will be offered by various schools, recognition for high grades in state and district tests will be available, and the Kiwanis club keys, given annually to the boy and girl rated highest scholastically in the graduating class, will be awarded during the Commencement program. All who possibly can should be present for the graduation service. It promises to be outstanding with an able speaker scheduled to deliver the main address, high ranking students and others having important roles during the evening's exercises.

TO NEW HOLLAND ATHLETES

TEAMS: Your victory last week in the annual Pickaway county track and field meet was well-earned and proved again that New Holland's athletes are among the county's best year in and year out. If someone were to check back over the field day records in the last 10 years he would find that New Holland has been out in front on a good many occasions. Congratulations are due the youngsters who make up the various teams and their coaches who have spent much time and effort to properly condition them. Applause is due, too, to the other schools, whose athletes tried their hardest to win points and honor for their institutions. A bouquet goes to Joe Davis, sterling New Holland sprinter, whose individual ability helped put his team out in front.

World At A Glance

Diplomatic Washington is gambling heavy odds that war will not break out in Europe while the king and queen of England are on this side of the Atlantic and especially while they are in this country. Not that the king has any governmental authority at home. He hasn't nearly as much of it there as the president of the United States has in this republic. Nevertheless, as per British precedent, it would be perfectly scandalous for Britain to engage in international hostilities with its nominal boss away from his native soil. It might be passable while he's in Canada, but not during his stay on this side of the border.

The conclusion is that their majesties' trip certainly would have been cancelled if the London government hadn't been confident of stalling off trouble at least until its sovereign and his consort are back again in Buckingham Palace or at Windsor or some other royal residence.

In effect, they're regarded as virtual peace hostages so long as they stay here.

HOW POPULAR ARE THEY?

Uncle Sam's officialdom is a good bit worried as to the popularity of the reception the visiting royals receive here.

Scarcely needful to say, they'll be safeguarded from cranks as no two national guests ever were before. In this respect they'll be a decided nuisance. They'll upset all the normal life of the capital. Traffic will be shot entirely to pieces. Local business will be completely disorganized. The citizenry will consider 'em an infernal bother. But what does the entertainment committee care for ordinary folk? John Doe won't be able to get to his office. Crossing Pennsylvania Avenue will be like crossing the Polish Corridor.

There'll be terrific crowds along both sides of the street. The authorities want a reasonable amount of applause from these aggregations. They're not afraid of many boos, but they're slightly apprehensive of clammy indifference.

"Sassiness" is another headache. The tony bunch is literally crazy to get in on the receptions and things. Invitations to 'em are more valuable than United States senatorships. The British embassy's vicinity will be a war zone. Washington has entertained royalty before, but never royalty of this pair's caliber.

WALLIE AND HUSBAND

It's suspected that the recent broadcast by the Duke of Windsor (ex-king and former Prince of Wales) has sucked some of the life out of the welcome expected for his younger brother and sister-in-law.

The former prince has been here a time or two before, and was greatly liked.

My guess would be that the Windsors, dropping in for a week-end, would create more of a splash than their Britannic majesties. They wouldn't get such an official blow-out, but I'll bet they'd get a lot of public clamor.

Probably that's why the British government was so cold toward the duke's radio broadcast. It didn't enjoy having the duke swiping so much of the king's thunder—particularly at this juncture.

Dispatches keep saying that the duke and duchess are coming over here shortly.

If they do, they won't get the same official holler as the king and queen, but I'll bet they'll get more general attention than the royal couple.

Nevertheless, the two royalties will gum up the streets worse.

Gosh! What a pest these moguls are—obstructing traffic, the way they do—in a republic.

It's enough to make anybody a democrat.

The worst of it is that they stop over into our midst.

DIET AND HEALTH

X-Ray is Safeguard in Thymus Troubles

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ONE OF the vivid recollections of my boyhood is that of a play-fellow who was killed suddenly in a game of baseball. We were playing scrub and he was somewhere around first base and a batted ball hit him in the chest. It was not batted very hard and the impact was not severe, but he fell down, took a few gasping breaths and passed out.

It was the first time most of us had ever seen death and, poor kids, we didn't know what it was, or what to do. Fortunately for us, it was in the days when a doctor might come by with a horse and buggy, and nice old Doctor Jenny stopped his progress and took the boy in his arms and carried him home to his mother.

The remembrance of the matter passes all description. I see him now every once in a while in some nook or cranny of this wicked world, and he never fails to bring up in an awed whisper the recollection of that dreadful afternoon.

Thymic Death

I have no doubt, as I look back on it, that this was a thymic death, and had our valiant first baseman lived

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

A little longer he would have been in a state of status thymico-lymphaticus.

We described the thymus gland yesterday, that large pink mass of spongy tissue that lies in the chest just behind the breast bone. It atrophies after adolescence, after growth and maturity have occurred.

But sometimes it doesn't. Sometimes it persists and we have the picture of status thymico-lymphaticus. These individuals have a very characteristic appearance. The old doctors would say they had a lymphatic constitution. They have a pale, whitish, waxy complexion. The hair is very fine and rather scant. They are plump, well padded with fat and almost invariably blond. The tonsils and adenoids are likely to be large—the thymus is similar in structure to the tonsils (lymphoid tissue)—and they are liable to grow back again if removed.

They catch cold easily and have a very low resistance to any infection or contagion. They catch anything that is going around.

And they are very liable to sudden death. Sometimes this occurs in the form of apoplexy, sometimes from a heart seizure. Certainly the thymus has something to do with the shock mechanism of the body.

If the condition is recognized, a great deal can be done to safeguard these individuals from their dangers. The thymus can be reduced in size or even completely destroyed by the x-ray. This treatment is effective in selective cases, and observant who have watched these patients over a period of a quarter of a century see no bad results. The thymic individual can eat large quantities of sugar and starch, and a diet high in these elements is good for them. They must be protected from many of the stresses and exposures of life, such as tougher hordes like you and me take in our stride.

"Perfect!" she murmured. It was, but that didn't mean that she found it attractive. It was the third act, a living room in an upper West Side flat. It was shabby, shoddy with dull greens and browns and paper roses in a horrible vase on a sideboard. It was the perfect background for the drama to be played against it. Eleanor knew how uncannily perfect it was; it was almost a replica of her own home in her girlhood.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mr. C. J. W.: "I have a rash on my right hand which has been coming off and on now for a couple of years. It starts with a white blister which breaks open. Then the skin gets dry, hard, scaly, and cracks open. What could it do for it?"

Answer: The condition that you describe may possibly be ringworm of the hands.

In ringworm of the hands, the type of rash that is present is variolous. Usually the rash consists of reddish spots which are scaly. These spots may have small blisters around the outside of them and are usually lighter in the center. Patients with this condition often have ringworm of the feet also.

In treating this disorder, one of the helpful preparations is made with salicylic acid (sal-is-ik), acid, two parts; benzoic (ben-zo-ik) acid, three parts; cold cream and petrolatum, equal parts enough to make thirty.

The ointment is put on once or twice a day, under the physician's directions, and rubbed gently into the skin. If this does not clear up the condition, x-ray treatments may be required. Ultra-violet ray treatments of the infected parts are sometimes helpful.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. CONTRACT BRIDGE very bad double, North had several options. He could rebid his 6-card spade suit, he could bid his 4-card heart suit or he could redouble. The last of these was by far the best, and that is the course he chose.

OUTDOING THE DEALER

ONE OF THE nicest ways to get a lot of extra points, over and beyond those which have been dealt into the cards for you, lies in re-doubling a low contract which one of your opponents has doubled and which you are convinced your side can surely make, with possibly an overtrick or so. Sometimes the scores obtained this way will mount up to several times what you could get in any other manner. Hands which could not even produce a game under ordinary circumstances can thus give you a total much larger than a game would produce.

East and West were using the convention which prescribes that if East now bid a suit he would be showing strength and that a pass would put it up to his partner to act to protect himself. East therefore had to pass and West could do nothing but leave it in.

The declarer made the contract, plus an overtrick, because every time he was in the North hand he led a put it up to his partner to act to protect himself. East therefore had to pass and West could do nothing but leave it in.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

IT WAS cold and draughty in the theater. Mrs. Parrish folded her mink coat closer to her and looked at her diamond watch in the light of her neighbor's cigarette lighter.

He flicked the lighter off and jumped to his feet, shouting at the stage:

"What's the matter with you, Ellerbe? Half a dozen times I tell you the business at the carafe is out!"

Ellerbe, who was the character lead and one of the two partners in the play, "Partners Preferred," raised his eyebrows so that even Eleanor, sitting in the tenth row of the pit in the empty theater, could gauge the distance of their rise. He looked at the director, who returned his glance with a shrug.

Eleanor glanced at her watch again. She thought she ought to leave before the rehearsal was called off. Leverich would be sure to catch her ear and pour out his troubles. There was nothing that she could do, she was merely the author. It was Manheim's money that was putting on the production.

She might have put her own money into it. She had a great deal of money. The royalties on her novels, serials and short stories, the financial gains from picture sales and foreign sales (she was translated in a number of foreign languages) and from royalties from her three preceding plays had been overwhelming. After Phil had invested them well, she truly did not know how much money she had, but she knew, even with the tax deductions, it was close to half a million dollars. One magazine alone had paid her fifty thousand dollars each for four serials in the last year.

A portly man with long, flowing hair—he was Ferdinand Auchlauer who was known as the best scenic designer on Broadway—leaned over her shoulder and wheezed into her ear, "How do you like the set?"

"Perfect!" she murmured. It was, but that didn't mean that she found it attractive. It was the third act, a living room in an upper West Side flat. It was shabby, shoddy with dull greens and browns and paper roses in a horrible vase on a sideboard. It was the perfect background for the drama to be played against it. money into it; she didn't like it.

She drew on heavy suede gloves and got up. Manheim walked to the back of the theater with her. "We've got a real human drama here, Mrs. Parrish," he said.

"Nervous?" he asked. "Shouldn't I be?" she parried. That was the proper thing to say.

It would never do to tell him that she was through with it once she had written it; that she had written it only to make money.

She told him that she was expecting her car at once, though she had ordered it for a quarter of an hour later. She did not want to talk to him about the play, to stand in the lobby with a set smile on her face while she seethed inwardly. The taste of money was brassy in her mouth. She wished that she might have written something gay and sparkling, something clever. Great "human drama" indeed!

It was March, and a blustery wind tore at the moorings of her hat and flapped the skirts of her mink coat. Holding one and clutching at the other, she looked across the way. The Globe building faced her.

In the very doorway that she now faced she had stood on another March day, holding another hat secure against the March wind, another day when she had waited for Phil.

Those were her halcyon days. Those were the days when she worked with Kate, when her job had been an adventure, when Phil's wife was an adventure. She remembered the flat in Blake street. It had been gay and colorful then. It had rung with laughter. Nostalgia for those times, for the girl she had been, made her ache as if with pressure from a band around her heart.

Where along the route of her success, that route that she had traveled swift as the wind, had that girl died and this woman—tired of the taste of success—been born?

She thought for a moment, with a twisted smile, that had she been a character in a story of her own making, she would put the thought of her family into her heroine's mind. It would be as if a great light had shown on her, guiding her back to the reality of home and children and husband.

A clock in the tower of the Globe building struck five times. Morton was late. No, the maroon town car was turning in from Eighth avenue.

"Take me to Mrs. Weathersby's," she said, getting in.

Amanda Weathersby lived far up on Fifth avenue. The big car crawled along Seventh avenue to the Park. Eleanor looked in her mirror and saw that her nose was shining. She snapped the lid back. Let it shine. She had no heart for making herself beautiful. She had no heart for the conversation, for the cocktails she would find at Amanda's. She picked up the tube and said, "Morton, do you know if Mr. Parrish is still at his office?"

"I believe so, Madame. He asked me to call for him at six if you were not using the car."

"Turn around. I'll fetch him."

Phil's office was on the thirty-third floor of a mid-town skyscraper. Eleanor had thought the whole idea rather silly, but she had bowed to his wish when he said: "If I'm going to give up my job to manage you, Nell, I must have an office. It will make me feel better."

She had insisted on furnishing it as a Christmas gift to him. He said he'd like it to look like a newspaper office, but she'd been insistent on silver ash and modern decor. That had been a year and a quarter ago. Jessica had got her "slinky satin" frock on the strength of her suggestion that made it possible.

Eleanor stood before the door of Phil's office with a puzzled expression on her face, her hand hesitant to open it. There were two names on the door:

ELEANOR PARRISH
PHILLIP PARRISH

The neat black letters, his name under hers, arrested her. Some-how she felt that the keynote of her discontent, of her feeling of unfulfillment, lay there before her eyes, but it was obscure and she could not fathom it.

A wild idea came into her mind. Her lips felt dry with the words that came to them. She opened the door with them in her mouth.

"Phil," she would say, "I'm not going to write any more! Help me not to! For the first time in my life I feel I am doing something that is right without knowing why."

"Oh, Mrs. Parrish," Phil's secretary greeted her, "Mr. Parrish has been trying to reach you all afternoon. Something very important has come up."

Phil came to the door of his office. "Good girl, Nell!" he said beaming. "I knew Johnson would meet my terms. He'll pay sixty thousand for the Jackson saga if you can have it finished by June first. It may mean that you'll have to drop work on 'Words Without Music' . . ."

"No," she answered, "I can finish it. Phil . . . that's what my life is like . . . millions of words and no music. I've lost the melody. . . . Well, let me see Johnson's letter."

Pythian Sisters Graded High at Inspection Rite

District Deputy Present For Meeting

Mrs. Ralph Roby, most excellent chief, was in charge of the officers and Mrs. Frank Davis led the degree staff when they exemplified the ritualistic work of Majors' Temple No. 516, Pythian Sisters, Thursday, at the annual inspection meeting of the order. Mrs. Bernice Hannas of Alexandria, district deputy, was inspecting officer and graded the work of the organization at 97 1/2 percent.

Large bouquets of iris, tulips, spirea and red peonies attractively decorated the lodge room where the officers and degree staff, uniformly gowned in white, put on the work.

Seven members of the Williamsport Temple were received as members by transfer cards, the charter of their organization having been revoked because of lack of members.

Guests from Stoutsville, Adelphi, Laurelville, Mt. Sterling, Ashville, and Waverly were included among 75 present at the meeting.

Supper was served at beautifully arranged tables set in the dining room, by Mrs. R. T. Liston and her committee which consisted of Miss Laura Mantle, Mrs. Charles Stoffer, Mrs. G. M. Newton, Miss Nellie Bolander and Mrs. Leroy May.

Mrs. Will Fitzpatrick, Mrs. James Carpenter and Mrs. Loring Evans received the guests.

Mrs. Bower Hostess
Mrs. W. A. Thomas and Mrs. Virgil M. Cress were high score prize winners Thursday when Mrs. Luther Bower entertained her bridge club in her home on Beverly Road.

Two tables of contract bridge progressed during the afternoon. Light refreshments were served.

Mrs. Ralph Heistand will entertain the group in two weeks.

Achievement Day
Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, Miss Mary Porter, Saltcreek township, Mrs. Stanley Beckett, Mrs. Cecil Noecker of the Ashville community and Mrs. Cora Rader Hood of Pickaway township were in Athens, Thursday, where they represented the Pickaway County Farm Bureau at the Southeastern district conference of the extension department. Pickaway county is one of the 17 counties included in this district. Representatives from all counties were present.

The annual Achievement Day program was presented at Memorial Hall on the Ohio university campus.

Two hundred and fifty were present at the luncheon served at Howard Hall at noon.

The programs of the different sessions included talks by representative district speakers and music, both vocal and instrumental, by college students.

Tea was served in the afternoon at one of the college sorority houses by members of the Home Economics department of the university.

U. B. Ladies Aid
The Ladies' Aid society of the United Brethren church will meet Thursday at 2 p. m. in the community house.

Shining Light Bible Class
Eighteen members and guests of the Shining Light Bible class enjoyed a covered dish supper Thursday in the United Brethren community house preceding the monthly meeting. Mrs. Rockford Brown, Mrs. Frank Hussey and Mrs. Roy Groce were in charge of the arrangements for the affair.

The regular session opened with group singing of hymns and the scripture lesson read from the fourth chapter of Acts by Mrs. James Trimmer. Mrs. Ralph Long offered prayer.

After a brief business session led by Mrs. Edward Cox, the meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison by the class.

B. and P. W. Convention
Miss Mary Howard and Mrs. Mary G. Morris will be delegates and Miss Minnie Palm and Miss Elizabeth Drum, alternates, from the Circleville Business and Professional Women's club, to the 20th annual State Convention of the Ohio Federation of B. and P. W. club in session May 19-20 at the Neil House, Columbus. Other members of the Circleville club will attend various sessions of the convention.

Eleanor Arnett Nash, short story writer and widely-known lecturer of fashions for Bonwit Teller of New York City, will be speaker at the Saturday evening banquet.

Mrs. Lucille B. Oliver of New York City, graduate of Swarthmore and director of organization for the National B. and P. Women's Federation will address delegates Sunday afternoon.

National B. and P. W. emblem, chosen in 1921, aptly symbolizes the credo of the organization. The torch, symbol of the educational program, stands for light, principle and leadership. Staff of Mercury, symbol of the health program, heralds a new day for women in opportunity, equality and health. The ship of Commerce (international relations program) typifies the entrance of women into business, expansion of opportunities and extension of overseas program. The Scroll records achievements, talents and efforts, Nike, the Winged Victory of Samothrace, symbolizes strength, progress, freedom, triumph over prejudice and other limitations. The golden circle binding these emblems together is the sign of unbroken harmony, endless friendship—the circle of completeness.

Piano Recital
Miss Anna L. Merz of Columbus will present Ruth Esther Blum in piano recital, Sunday, at 3 p. m. in the parish house of Trinity Lutheran church. Miss Blum, who is the thirteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blum of Watt street, has a splendid memory and will play the entire program without music. She is active in school circles and in Sunday school, and is a member of the high school orchestra. The public is invited to the recital.

The program follows:
In a Boat Zwecker Valsic
To a Toy Soldier Warner Cubanola
Snowfall Saperton
Scherzo in B Flat Major Schubert
Fantasia in D Minor Mozart
On Wings of Song Mendelssohn

Willing Workers' Class
A Mother's Day program was enjoyed by the members of the Willing Workers' class of the Pontius United Brethren church when they met for the May session Thursday in the home of Mrs. Bertha Walker of Washington township.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Larry Goodman, president, the meeting opened with the group singing of hymns with the 128th

GARDEN-GRAPH

Beauty-Destroying Diseases of Roses

Since roses are the "Grand Dames" of the garden, they must be protected against diseases which would destroy their beauty. Mildew, for example, is one disease which not only causes the leaves to turn white and curl and droop as shown in today's Garden-Graph, but also attacks the buds and causes them to become deformed. Mildew appears during damp weather, or as the result of damp weather. It is first noticed upon the buds but spreads rapidly to the foliage. To protect roses against mildew spray them with some one of the commercial forms of Massey dust.

The disease most dreaded by rose growers is black spot. It starts at the base of the plant and works upward. Black spot should be prevented, as it cannot be cured once a rose bush is infected. Black spot can be prevented by keeping the rose foliage dusted with sulphur. Start the sulphur treatments as soon as the leaves appear, and continue to dust the bushes every 10 days until Fall.

Pythian Sisters Graded High at Inspection Rite

District Deputy Present For Meeting

Mrs. Ralph Roby, most excellent chief, was in charge of the officers and Mrs. Frank Davis led the degree staff when they exemplified the ritualistic work of Majors' Temple No. 516, Pythian Sisters, Thursday, at the annual inspection meeting of the order. Mrs. Bernice Hannas of Alexandria, district deputy, was inspecting officer and graded the work of the organization at 97 1/2 percent.

Large bouquets of iris, tulips, spirea and red peonies attractively decorated the lodge room where the officers and degree staff, uniformly gowned in white, put on the work.

Seven members of the Williamsport Temple were received as members by transfer cards, the charter of their organization having been revoked because of lack of members.

Guests from Stoutsville, Adelphi, Laurelville, Mt. Sterling, Ashville, and Waverly were included among 75 present at the meeting.

Supper was served at beautifully arranged tables set in the dining room, by Mrs. R. T. Liston and her committee which consisted of Miss Laura Mantle, Mrs. Charles Stofor, Mrs. G. M. Newton, Miss Nellie Bolender and Mrs. Leroy May.

Mrs. Will Fitzpatrick, Mrs. James Carpenter and Mrs. Loring Evans received the guests.

Mrs. Bower Hostess

Mrs. W. A. Thomas and Mrs. Virgil M. Cress were high score prize winners Thursday when Mrs. Luther Bower entertained her bridge club in her home on Beverly Road.

Two tables of contract bridge progressed during the afternoon. Light refreshments were served.

Mrs. Ralph Heistand will entertain the group in two weeks.

Achievement Day

Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, Miss Mary Porter, Saltcreek township, Mrs. Stanley Beckett, Mrs. Cecil Noecker of the Ashville community and Mrs. Cora Rader Hood of Pickaway township were in Athens, Thursday, where they represented the Pickaway County Farm Bureau at the Southeastern district conference of the extension department. Pickaway county is one of the 17 counties included in this district. Representatives from all counties were present.

The annual Achievement Day program was presented at Memorial Hall on the Ohio university campus.

Two hundred and fifty were present at the luncheon served at Howard Hall at noon.

The programs of the different sessions included talks by representative district speakers and music, both vocal and instrumental, by college students.

Tea was served in the afternoon at one of the college sorority houses by members of the Home Economics department of the university.

U. B. Ladies Aid

The Ladies' Aid society of the United Brethren church will meet Thursday at 2 p. m. in the community house.

Shining Light Bible Class

Eighteen members and guests of the Shining Light Bible class enjoyed a covered dish supper Thursday in the United Brethren community house preceding the monthly meeting. Mrs. Rockford Brown, Mrs. Frank Hussey and Mrs. Roy Groce were in charge of the arrangements for the affair.

The regular session opened with group singing of hymns and the scripture lesson read from the fourth chapter of Acts by Mrs. James Trimmer. Mrs. Ralph Long offered prayer.

After a brief business session led by Mrs. Edward Cox, the meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison by the class.

Today's Fashion

A printed silk suit has a score of uses: Sunday strolls, town luncheons, receptions and teas, informal dining, the movies. This is an appealing model in a small black and pink motif. The short, loose, swinging jacket reveals an all-over shirred pink chiffon blouse with short sleeves and a high round neck tied in a soft bow. It might be dressed-up with a fur scarf or cape.

assured a year of constructive work, with the approval and solid co-operation of those in power. These will be attracted by major projects that are worked out by new methods. Enhanced prestige and popularity, with happy social reactions, climax well-directed initiative.

A child born on this day may be energetic, practical, aggressive, probably militant. Its determination, good judgment, industry and bold initiative should assure it success in important creative work.

Dear Tom:

The "Proof of the Pudding is the eating thereof" but the Proof of Advertising is the Results.

While the auto industry was showing nearly a 60% fall off in sales in 1938 over 1937 we came thru with a 30% increase and during the same period our 1939 sales of 34 new Buicks is 20% ahead of 1938.

Of course we believe Buick to be the outstanding value of the new car market and we guarantee and price our used cars right, but these sales would not have been possible without the medium of your fine paper to help us carry our story to the people. We want you to know that we give your paper credit for a goodly part of these sales.

Your paper covers our trading area perfectly, your ads are set up and displayed well and you have an efficient and courteous organization. We KNOW that our ads pay in your paper.

Hoping you and your paper continued prosperity, we remain

Yours very truly,

The proof is before you . . . Daily Herald readers ARE RECEPTIVE TO YOUR ADVERTISING MESSAGES. . . and only, through this newspaper can Pickaway county be properly and successfully covered.

YOU GET MORE FOR YOUR MONEY WHEN YOU BUY FROM THE MERCHANT WHO ADVERTISES IN THE NEWSPAPER

Advertised goods are invariably greater values. You get more for your money when you buy them. Here's why! Newspaper advertising gives a merchant fast economical distribution in larger quantities and hence more cheaply. And because of the intense daily competition for public favor from the thousands of people who read all the ads every day—every advertiser must pass those lower costs on to the consumer—and does so gladly!

PHILLY OUTFIT INVADES FIELD OF OHIO SQUAD

Three First Inning Markers Enough For Johnny To Turn Back Bees

RED BIRDS IN FOURTH

Earl Browne's Home Run Is Vital Blow; Kurowski Goes East

CINCINNATI, May 19—A confident Cincinnati Reds baseball team was to meet Philadelphia today following a 3 to 2 victory over the Boston Bees yesterday that swept the series.

A first inning single by Ival Goodman, followed by homers by Frank McCormick and Ernie Lombardi, decided the game yesterday in favor of Cincinnati.

Danny MacFayden, Boston pitcher, was sent to the showers after two outs, and John Lanning, relief hurler, then held the Reds to three hits. John "No-Hit" Vander Meer, allowed the visiting team only six hits.

The victory left the Ohio squad only one-half game behind the leading St. Louis Cardinals.

COLUMBUS, May 19—The Columbus Red Birds were tied for fourth place with St. Paul today in the American Association pennant race following their 3 to 2 victory over Indianapolis yesterday.

The two teams were four and one-half games behind the circuit-leading Kansas City Blues. In second place was Minneapolis and third position was held by Milwaukee.

A home run by Earl Browne, right fielder for Columbus, decided the game. An enemy error and a sacrifice fly brought in the other two runs.

At Kansas City the Blues defeated the Minneapolis Millers 5 to 1 to remain on top in the league race. The home team's veteran pitcher, Johnny Babich, went the entire nine innings for the first time this season. He was injured several weeks ago.

An 11 to 5 victory over St. Paul at Milwaukee put the Milwaukee Brewers back in third place in the league.

At Toledo the Mud Hens suffered their sixth straight defeat, this time at the hands of the Louisville Colonels, who won 14 to 5.

COLUMBUS, May 19 — Daniel Murtough, 19-year-old infielder of the Rochester International League, today prepared to replace George Kurowski, Columbus Red Birds' rookie, following an even trade announced by President Al Bannister of the Ohio squad.

The trade was made because Rochester was in need of a third baseman and Columbus was looking for a man who could play either second, third or short, officials said.

New York Yankees Show Way in Many Divisions

By Sid Mercer
NEW YORK, May 19—Seven other American League clubs read these figures and weep.

Statistics to date today show the Yankees leading in team batting, team fielding, home runs, extra base hits, runs scored and runs batted in.

They are second in stolen bases and double plays.

Not counting Joe DiMaggio, who froze his batting average at .435 for seven games, they have four regulars hitting better than .300—Bill Dickey and three outfielders.

Red Rolfe, with a batting average of .280, has scored 21 runs and batted in 12 in 25 games.

Joe Gordon, hitting .256 in the seventh slot, has driven in 18 runs.

No wonder the other seven clubs are driven to despair when they peruse the cold figures and then contemplate the Yankee pitchers, four of whom have won 13 games between them without a defeat.

It's enough to create a demand for a new deal before June 1.

With eight straight games tucked under their belts the amazing champions are threatening their best 1938 winning streak—which was nine straight and a tie before they took an afternoon off.

Connie Mack and other astute baseball appraisers think this may be the best Yankee team of all time and that means the best team the major leagues have ever presented.

To complete the record, the Yanks now lead in hitting with a team average of .294. The Browns are second, hitting .280 for 25 games.

The Yankees have made 23 home runs, an average of one for each game; 41 two-baggers, 11 triples and 167 singles for a total

ESHELMAN TOPS DAIRY TEAM IN 5 TO 4 CONTEST

Davis And Fowler Engage In Mound Duel, Latter Fanning Ten

Eshelman Feeds pushed five runs across the platter in the first four innings of their game with the Blue Ribbon Dairy Thursday evening and won the contest, 5-4. The game was a thriller with brilliant plays featuring the performance of both clubs.

Pug Fowler, tossing the ball for the losers, fanned 10 opposing batters, but some free transportation and timely hitting on the part of the Feed outfit turned the trick. Davis, hurling for the winners, scattered six hits and failed to fan an opponent, but he bore down nobly with men in the paths.

Smalley, with two doubles, led the Eshelman attack.

President Joe Brink, of the league, has called a meeting of team managers to be at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening in the Coca Cola plant. A disputed play from Thursday night's game will be discussed.

There is no game scheduled Friday evening.

Pug Fowler, tossing the ball for the losers, fanned 10 opposing batters, but some free transportation and timely hitting on the part of the Feed outfit turned the trick. Davis, hurling for the winners, scattered six hits and failed to fan an opponent, but he bore down nobly with men in the paths.

Smalley, with two doubles, led the Eshelman attack.

President Joe Brink, of the league, has called a meeting of team managers to be at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening in the Coca Cola plant. A disputed play from Thursday night's game will be discussed.

There is no game scheduled Friday evening.

LAURELVILLE

Mrs. Paul Armstrong

Members of the Ladies Bridge Club were entertained, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. W. Reichelderfer.

High scores were held by Mrs. Amy Grattidge, Mrs. Mildred Hedges and Mrs. Alice Morris. The club members presented Mrs. Margaret Floyd with a gift as she expects to leave Laurelville to live in California. Substitute players were Mrs. Alice Morris and Mrs. Edith Kelley.

At the close of play refreshments were served to Mrs. Esther Swepston, Mrs. Grattidge, Miss Frances McClelland, Mrs. Mildred Woolson, Mrs. Mildred Hedges, Mrs. Mabel Bowers, Mrs. Margaret Floyd, Mrs. Emma Cox, Mrs. Mamie Strous, Mrs. Frieda Lappen, Mrs. Edith Kelley and Mrs. Alice Morris.

Mrs. Mamie Strous will be hostess to the club in two weeks.

Mrs. Maude Devault entertained the members of the U. B. Ladies Aid Society at her home, Thursday evening.

The meeting opened with Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh in the chair and "There's Sunshine in My Soul" was the Opening Hymn. After the scripture lesson was read the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Fifteen members answered roll call and five visitors were present for the evening. Miss Norma Jean Daugherty, Miss Jean Drum and Miss Mary Strous sang, "Ye Must Be Born Again". Officers were elected as follows: Miss Ida Defenbaugh, president, Mrs. Maude Devault, vice president, Mrs. Nancy Strous, treasurer, Mrs. Hattie Karr, secretary, and Mrs. Della Sells as flower treasurer.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments.

Laurelville

Mother's Day was observed at the M. E. church Sunday morning by songs, by the Junior Choir and men's quartette, recitations by the children, musical reading by Miss Martha Woolson, Mrs. Frances Worley gave the origin of mothers day and "Mothers of Today" was the message of the pastor.

Laurelville
Mother's Day at the U. B. church was observed Sunday with special services.

Laurelville
Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh served as superintendent and the following mothers served as teachers and officers: Mrs. Maude Paxton, Mrs. Virginia Karshner, Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh, Mrs. Della Haynes, Mrs. Dorothy Harmon, Mrs. Icel Karshner, Mrs. Maude Devault, Mrs. Alpha Wharton and Mrs. Nancy Strous.

Readings were presented by Mrs. Dorothy Harmon, Mrs. Della Haynes, Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh, and Mrs. Hattie Karr, "When Mother Prayed" was sung by Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Devault, Mrs. Haynes and Mrs. Karr. There was an attendance of 52.

Laurelville
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Armstrong entertained a group of friends at their home Saturday evening in honor of the former's birthday.

The evening was spent playing cootie, stunts and contests, with prizes awarded to Mrs. Henry Mc-

Crady, Alfred Bosworth, Lowell Chase, and Walter Wagner.

Refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bosworth, of near Stoutsville Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Chase of Adelphi, Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCrady of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wagner of Uhrichsville, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Boecher and the host and hostess.

Mrs. Ida Campbell moved her household goods Monday from the Oscar Poling house on Main street to her farm house near Hamden. This Summer, she will live with her children.

RADIO BRIEFS

True Boardman, West-coast
radio actor-writer, returns to
New York City to appear opposite Helen Hayes in "Crossroads for Two," a two-part drama which will ring down the curtain
on the current "Silver Theatre" series. First installment will be heard Sunday, May 21, at 5 p. m.
with the final chapter aired Sunday, May 28.

Lucille Ball has been set to guest on Bing Crosby's "Music Hall" broadcast of Thursday,
June 8.

Gale Page makes a repeat appearance on "Hollywood Playhouse" Sunday, May 21, via CBS 5 to 8:30 p. m. supporting Charles Boyer in the second installment of the dramatization,
"Lost Horizon."

Leaving Hollywood for New York immediately following his 50th anniversary broadcast, Rudy
Vallee will give a "Diner Dinner" party for his orchestra and all of his previous guests on the show
-- in the dining car of the train!

Bryan Field will call the Metropolitan Handicap to be run at Belmont Park, Saturday, May 20.
Network: CBS. Time: 3:15.

Helen Jepson, internationally famous soprano, appears with two aspirants for film fame on the "Gateway to Hollywood" program
(CBS 5:30 p. m.) Sunday, May
21. Music director of the program is Wilbur Hatch.

Al Jolson and Ted Lloyd, "Radio Daily" columnist, will be cut in from Hollywood to the new "Lucky Break" program featuring the WLW Players (MBS 5 p. m.)
to top off a dramatization of Jol-son's life.

The "Idea Mart's" winning drama, "The Cannon Will Not Fire," will be the Radio Guild
Drama broadcast Sunday, May
28. Play was written by Ted Scherderman.

BURNS, ALLEN SIGN

George Burns and Gracie Allen
this week signed a brand new contract.

The show, a package deal which includes the entire Burns and Allen troupe with Ray Noble's orchestra, will be put on the coast to coast network sometime early in October. Facilities are not definite yet, but it is expected that the network will be announced next week.

When George and Gracie finish their current contract they will take their annual thirteen-week holiday before starting on their new show, formula of which will be identical with the one they are currently using.

RURAL ELECTRIC GROUP TO MEET

New Trustee To Be Named
For Pickaway County
At Conference

Selection of a new trustee for Pickaway county is expected Friday night when trustees of the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative meet in Lancaster, headquarters of the organization.
William Green, Scioto township, and Newell Stevenson, N.
Court street, farmer in Jackson township, have been nominated for the trustee position by Pick-away county's advisory board
under the rural electrification program.

The new trustee will succeed
Marvin Steeley, Washington township, who resigned from the board. Mr. Steeley said he submitted his resignation because both he and Ralph Head, of Pick-away township, the other Pickaway county trustee, were from the eastern portion of the county.
He believed the western section,
in which lines will be constructed soon, should be represented on the board. About 200 miles of lines serving 600 customers are to be erected in the western part of the county.

The cooperative embraces Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties.

LUTHERAN MEN HAVE PROGRAM OF INTEREST

About 20 of the younger members of Trinity Lutheran church brotherhood provided the entertainment Thursday evening with a varied program. Dr. J. J. Baker acted as master of ceremonies.

The program was in the form of a radio broadcast, L. M. Mader's outfit being used. "Two Black Crows," by Charles Weldinger and Charles Walter; "Jack Winchell", by John Himrod; harp solos, by Ralph Friley and a rube sketch,
by Harry Athey provided the program. The Rev. G. L. Troutman discussed his recent trip to the World's Fair in New York.

Elmer Wolf, N. Court street, was able to attend the meeting
after a long illness.

Lunch consisted of roast beef,
bread and gravy, did pickles, radishes, onions and coffee.

The next meeting June 8, will be at the country home of James Mowery with the American Legion drum corps being the honored guests. A ball game and a quiz list will provide the program.</

CHANGES MADE IN ELECTION LAWS

ABSENT VOTERS WARNED ABOUT VITAL REVISION

Board Clerk Discloses Many Items Approved To Aid In Balloting

Many vital changes in Ohio's election laws will be enforced in the August primary, Lawrence J. Johnson, clerk of the Pickaway county board of elections, disclosed Friday in discussing the approaching primary.

Several of the changes concern persons who have been voting absentee ballots. Others tend to bring about economies in operation of the primary.

Absentee voting has been changed drastically, Mr. Johnson disclosed, the law now providing that an elector must be absent from his county a distance of 50 miles, instead of 10 miles, before an application can be filed. Applications must be placed with the election board not later than 6:30 p. m. of the Thursday preceding the election, and ballots must be filed for distribution to the various precincts not later than 12 noon the Friday preceding the election.

Money To Be Saved

Heretofore, applications for absentee ballots could be filed as late as midnight Saturday before the election, and ballots filed as late as election day. Those particular amendments are expected to save thousands of dollars in the state usually spent in delivering absentee voters' ballots to precinct boards on election day.

An amendment passed in the interest of economy provides that in municipalities where the number of candidates seeking nomination to office does not exceed the number of candidates to be elected, certificates of nomination will be issued by the election board to candidates and their names will be placed on the November party column ballot and the expense of a primary will thus be avoided.

Sample Ballots Revised
Regulations regarding sample ballots also were altered. In past years, sample party ballots were printed on white paper and marked "sample ballots." Hereafter, sample ballots must be printed on colored paper and in addition must be designated as sample ballots.

Mr. Johnson called attention to another provision of the new election law that requires persons who have been away from their home precincts for more than three years must vote at their new residences. For instance, a Circleville man who has made his home in Columbus for the last three years, but has maintained Circleville as his legal residence

Prince in Exile?

CROWN PRINCE Humbert (above) was ordered to make "an extended visit" to Belgium, amounting to exile from Italy, according to London reports. The move was blamed on his consistent opposition to Mussolini's policies, particularly collaboration with Nazi Germany.

PHYSICIANS SAY PALMER KILLED BY INFECTION

SARASOTA, Fla., May 19—A coroner's jury today was expected to accept the verdict of physicians who performed an autopsy on the body of Potter D'Orsay Palmer that the 34-year-old Chicagoan died as a result of a streptococcal infection. That Palmer had succumbed naturally from illness and not as the result of injuries suffered in a fight, as first believed, was decided by the doctors when they were asked to explain why Palmer, apparently healthy, had died suddenly last Monday.

and has cast his ballot here, must now vote in Columbus.

State employees, however, are given the same voting rights of federal employees, in that no matter where they may be employed they will still be permitted to cast ballots in their home town.

85 ROTARY MEN ATTEND SESSION

London Visitors Provide Interesting Program Of Motion Pictures

Eighty-five Circleville and London Rotarians enjoyed an inter-city meeting held Thursday evening in the American hotel coffee shop. The London delegation included 30 members.

Following the dinner, Ray Rowland, president of the Circleville club, introduced Wilbur Hume, president of the London club, who conducted the program. Two interesting motion pictures were presented, one on home insulation and the other of a wrestling match in Madison Square garden.

Inter-city Rotary meetings are conducted to promote friendship and goodwill between the businessmen of neighboring cities.

FICHTER SPEAKS AT NEW HOLLAND GRADUATION RITE

An appeal to graduates to live the type of lives that will foster, promote and preserve the democratic form of government was made Thursday night by Joseph W. Fichter, professor at Miami university, Oxford, speaker at the 52nd annual commencement in New Holland.

The speaker urged graduates to become the type of citizen that will do his part in safeguarding democratic government, the finest form of government in existence. Prof. Fichter is state Grange lecturer.

Music for the exercises was presented by the Capital university glee club quartet. John D. Louis was salutatorian, and Dorothy Elenora Wright was valedictorian. Presentation of diplomas was made by George L. McDowell, superintendent of county schools. Special awards were presented by Harold Costlow, superintendent. The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. V. C. Stump.

Graduates were Joseph T. Ater, Virginia Chaffin, Joe L. Davis, Lewis Allen Dennis, Warren G. Dennis, Annabelle Helsel, Richard William Kirkpatrick, John D. Louis, Elaine McQuay, Paul Edward Minshall, Harold L. Rowland, Robert Wayne Rowland, Kathryn M. Satchell, Avonelle Vincent, Elmer H. Woods and Dorothy Elenora Wright.

An amendment passed in the interest of economy provides that in municipalities where the number of candidates seeking nomination to office does not exceed the number of candidates to be elected, certificates of nomination will be issued by the election board to candidates and their names will be placed on the November party column ballot and the expense of a primary will thus be avoided.

Sample Ballots Revised
Regulations regarding sample ballots also were altered. In past years, sample party ballots were printed on white paper and marked "sample ballots." Hereafter, sample ballots must be printed on colored paper and in addition must be designated as sample ballots.

Mr. Johnson called attention to another provision of the new election law that requires persons who have been away from their home precincts for more than three years must vote at their new residences. For instance, a Circleville man who has made his home in Columbus for the last three years, but has maintained Circleville as his legal residence

Prince in Exile?

CROWN PRINCE HUMBERT (above) was ordered to make "an extended visit" to Belgium, amounting to exile from Italy, according to London reports. The move was blamed on his consistent opposition to Mussolini's policies, particularly collaboration with Nazi Germany.

PHYSICIANS SAY PALMER KILLED BY INFECTION

SARASOTA, Fla., May 19—A coroner's jury today was expected to accept the verdict of physicians who performed an autopsy on the body of Potter D'Orsay Palmer that the 34-year-old Chicagoan died as a result of a streptococcal infection. That Palmer had succumbed naturally from illness and not as the result of injuries suffered in a fight, as first believed, was decided by the doctors when they were asked to explain why Palmer, apparently healthy, had died suddenly last Monday.

and has cast his ballot here, must now vote in Columbus.

State employees, however, are given the same voting rights of federal employees, in that no matter where they may be employed they will still be permitted to cast ballots in their home town.

85 ROTARY MEN ATTEND SESSION

London Visitors Provide Interesting Program Of Motion Pictures

Eighty-five Circleville and London Rotarians enjoyed an inter-city meeting held Thursday evening in the American hotel coffee shop. The London delegation included 30 members.

Following the dinner, Ray Rowland, president of the Circleville club, introduced Wilbur Hume, president of the London club, who conducted the program. Two interesting motion pictures were presented, one on home insulation and the other of a wrestling match in Madison Square garden.

Inter-city Rotary meetings are conducted to promote friendship and goodwill between the businessmen of neighboring cities.

FICHTER SPEAKS AT NEW HOLLAND GRADUATION RITE

An appeal to graduates to live the type of lives that will foster, promote and preserve the democratic form of government was made Thursday night by Joseph W. Fichter, professor at Miami university, Oxford, speaker at the 52nd annual commencement in New Holland.

The speaker urged graduates to become the type of citizen that will do his part in safeguarding democratic government, the finest form of government in existence. Prof. Fichter is state Grange lecturer.

Music for the exercises was presented by the Capital university glee club quartet. John D. Louis was salutatorian, and Dorothy Elenora Wright was valedictorian. Presentation of diplomas was made by George L. McDowell, superintendent of county schools. Special awards were presented by Harold Costlow, superintendent. The invocation and benediction

were given by the Rev. V. C. Stump.

Graduates were Joseph T. Ater, Virginia Chaffin, Joe L. Davis, Lewis Allen Dennis, Warren G. Dennis, Annabelle Helsel, Richard William Kirkpatrick, John D. Louis, Elaine McQuay, Paul Edward Minshall, Harold L. Rowland, Robert Wayne Rowland, Kathryn M. Satchell, Avonelle Vincent, Elmer H. Woods and Dorothy Elenora Wright.

MARY McCORMIC ADMITS SHE WILL MARRY AGAIN

CHICAGO, May 19—Mary McCormic, blonde opera star who has been married three times, admitted today she soon will be altar bound again. Declining to reveal the identity of her intended, other than to say he's a traveling salesman, Miss McCormic described the man as "a Greek God, six feet, four inches of romantic Irishman, a man with Capital M."
